

Union Giants Here Thursday.

The Chicago Union Giants will play the local baseball team in this city tomorrow afternoon. The last two games that the Giants played here they were beaten so the indications are that it will be a fast and close game. Make it a point to be on hand and see the game.

Break Even.

Grand Rapids broke even in the two ball games played on Sunday with Tomahawk and Stevens Point, winning the morning game from the boys from the tannery town by a score of 3 to 1, in a well played game. For the Tomahawk pitcher threw a fine game and let our boys down with a few hits.

The afternoon game with Stevens Point was a battle royal and was witnessed by a record breaking crowd, there being over two hundred over from Stevens Point. This game went to Stevens Point after ten innings of fine base ball, our boys being shut out until the ninth inning when they tied the score and in the tenth Stevens Point added another, winning by a score of 3 to 2. Both Foster and VanFatter were in fine form and pitched good ball, neither side securing but few hits. Traverser, catcher for the Stevens Point team, reared a home run in the second inning by clouting the ball over the left fence.

James J. Hill

the once poor boy is now a Railroad President, made the following very serious statement:

"If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple and it is infallible: ARE YOU ABLE TO SAVE MONEY? If not, drop out. You will lose. You may think not, but you will lose as sure as you live. The seed of success is not in you."

Our Savings Department is organized to help you save, and we want your business, no matter how small.

Gollmar Brothers.

—Gollmar Brothers Show, which is booked to exhibit one day only in Grand Rapids, Aug. 10th has made unusual efforts to entertain the little folks as well as the adults with wholesome and profitable amusement. The date of a visit by the Gollmar Brothers becomes a veritable "children's day."

In this country there are hundreds of large cities and good towns where the Gollmar Brothers Show is popular. It is always accorded a hearty welcome and a liberal patronage wherever it exhibits. The Gollmar would like to please the children of every community, but it is a physical impossibility for their Circus to visit all of its towns at just the right time. To do such a thing would necessitate the dividing of the show, and this they would not do. No matter how small a town the Gollmar Brothers Circus may visit, it is never divided. It is one of the little rules that has made the combination what it is.

It is a fact that the Gollmars made greater efforts, and have gone to more expense to entertain the little folks than any other managers. Older people can always find entertainment, but it is the little ones that are neglected by many. Almost one-half of the space in the animal tent is filled with objects of special interest to the little people. The entire circus is filled with the finest Shetland ponies ever seen in one collection. They are of all sizes and colors. These ponies are used in the magnificent parade to pull the little cages of the miniature menagerie. Almost one side of the big menagerie tent is filled with little, cute and costly cages, made in imitation of the larger ones. These small cages are inhabited by small animals, such as monkeys, etc. In the circus proper, there are many cages, who are employed for the sole purpose of entertaining the children. Buster Brown is there, too.

In addition to these attractions must be added the several acts of trained animals. The child who is so fortunate as to have enjoyed such amusement is winning much in an educational way.

Will Tell All About Beer.

Dr. Wiley says he is going to tell the people what beer is. The doctor is wasting his time, for we all know what beer is. Beer is a light amber colored fluid with foam on top. During the summer months it is used quite extensively as a thirst quencher. It is generally sold at five cents a glass or six for a quarter, although it sometimes costs more than this. It is used both by rich and poor, although the rich keep it in the cellar as a general thing and drink it on the quiet, while the poor man leans up against the maltology and takes his'n. One of the chief constituents of beer is water, and other ingredients do enter into its composition. Beer is mildly intoxicating, but it affects different people differently. A German with a fog of beer under his belt generally wants to sing, an Irishman, unless he is a dead one, wants to fight, and the university boy wants to give his college yell and a Scotchman wants to write poetry. Some people claim that the drinking of beer is beneficial to the health while others claim that it is a detriment, so you can take your choice. Beer is generally wanted most when it cannot be obtained, and the least when it is plentiful. There may be other facts about beer that Dr. Wiley has discovered and if so we await his disclosures with impatience.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Jero, who have been visiting in the west for a month past, returned home last week. They visited at various points in Washington and Oregon during their absence.

Hubert Fletcher of Chicago arrived in the city on Tuesday to spend a week camping down the river with his friend, Gerald Fritzinger. Mr. Fletcher is employed as a proof reader on the Chicago Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Alexander of Milwaukee expect to move back to Port Edwards in a few weeks to make their home. They will occupy the Emil Garrison home which is at present being re-decorated and fixed up for their occupancy.

Complete Course in Agriculture for High Schools.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 1.—That a city woman, ignorant of farm conditions and farm life is one of the four things which should not be found in a well organized high school course in agriculture, is declared by Prof. K. L. Hatch of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, in his outline for an agricultural course in Wisconsin high schools, which has just been completed and will serve as a model for the high schools of the state. Students who are chronic failures and who take the course in agriculture because it is the only thing left that they haven't failed in, should also be excluded, declares Prof. Hatch, who also strenuously opposes the system of formal text book teaching.

Teaching agriculture to the exclusion of other important high school work is the fourth thing that should not be found in a properly regulated course.

The introduction of course of agriculture in the high schools of Wisconsin is an outgrowth of the movement to give students who intend to go no farther than the high school training in branches which will enable them to make their own living after leaving school. The introduction of courses in manual arts, domestic science, bookkeeping and stenography in the high school are all expressions of the tendency to have high school students gain practical knowledge along with the more cultural high school studies, such as Latin, literature and history. Means are being provided so that students may study the subjects which will help them to make a living in after life, and at the same time allow them to acquire an education that is broad, cultural and in no way limited by the demands of their vocation.

Five distinct fields of agriculture are covered in the outline for the course provided by Prof. Hatch. These subjects are farm mechanics, which includes a study of how to plan and build barns, silos, culverts, and roads, and furnishes some practice in making blue prints and giving ordinary drawing instructions; farm management, which is concerned with the keeping of farm accounts, farm records, the making of notes, mortgages, bills, receipts, contracts, and other forms of business which involves knowledge of commercial law; plant husbandry, in which study will be given to the various plant diseases and bacterial diseases of animals, to judging and testing, the identification of weeds, and investigation of legumes and forage plants. In addition to work in gardening and plant propagation; animal husbandry, the fourth field to be covered in the course, is concerned with breeds of live stock and how to distinguish good animals from poor, stock judging, the care of poultry, and a study of insects with a view to controlling their ravages on plants; agricultural chemistry and soils, the fifth great agricultural division, which takes up a study of dairying and dairy practices, feeds and feeding, soils and fertilizers, and the principles of land drainage.

In addition to complete outlines of every subject which is likely to be included in a high school course in agriculture, Prof. Hatch has furnished a list of 116 reference and text books, suitable for a library on agriculture for high schools, as well as a list of 51 free bulletins furnished by the University of Wisconsin on agricultural subjects.

D. E. Woodruff of Vesper was in the city on Tuesday looking after some business matters. Mr. Woodruff expects to leave soon for the state of Maryland, where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. John Maxwell, and if he likes it there he will probably spend the coming fall and winter there.

The remains of Mrs. Josephine Daley, who died in Milwaukee on Friday as the result of an operation, were brought to this city on Monday and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bever, being subsequently interred in Calvary cemetery. The deceased was 42 years of age and is survived by a husband.

COUNCIL HOLDS INTERESTING MEET

At the meeting of the city council last night it was decided that the ordinance was invalid so that nothing could be done about the Cohen matter and it was dropped. A new ordinance will be drawn.

The matter of granting a license to Chas. Giese, which has hung fire for some time, was taken up and Mr. Giese was granted a license.

The city engineer made a report on the experiments that have been made in securing water and a committee was appointed to see Mr. F. J. Wood to find what the property could be purchased for in the locality where the wells have been driven.

The matter of widening Oak street was taken up, the committee having reported that the property owners were dissatisfied with the offer made them. The board of public works will hold a meeting today to consider the matter.

The paving business was taken up and it was decided to start the work of securing supplies this fall, so that the work could be carried forward in the spring without delay. The matter of the injury to Wm. Johnson, who recently had a leg broken while in the employ of the city, was taken up, as under the new law it is thought that the city is liable.

City Clerk,
City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin.

Stahl-Abel.
Miss Lydia Stahl and Frank Abel were married at five o'clock this morning at St. Peter and Paul church Rev. Wm. Rading officiating. They were accompanied by Miss Mollie Stahl and Henry Abel as bridesmaid and groomsmen.

Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Frank Stahl of this city and a most estimable young lady, while the groom is one of the firm of Abel & Podawiltz, and one of our rising young business men.

The Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Baby Show a Success.

The baby show held at the Amusement hall last Thursday afternoon by the ladies of the Methodist church was a decided success from every standpoint. The prizes were won by Jane Linderman, Victor Young, Donald Herschleb and Leanna Goodrich, the prizes depending on the number of votes the youngsters got.

The ladies of St. Peter and Paul church served ice cream on the court house grounds during the band concert last Thursday evening. As the weather was pleasant and a good crowd of the ladies were kept hustling to supply the wants of those in attendance.

Town and school order books for sale at the Tribune office.

Retail Liquor Dealers.

The State Liquor Dealers' association, at their state convention recently held at Ashland, closed with the adoption of an amendment to the constitution, making a radical change in the conditions of membership in the association. The reference made during the convention to the equalizing of the interests of the brewers and retail dealers culminated with the adoption of this amendment, which provided that no persons may be members of the association except owners of retail saloons. This shuts all brewers or their representatives from membership and the action caused much feeling to be displayed on the part of the representatives of the brewers who were delegates.

The association, by formal resolutions which were passed, also voted on record as being opposed to the sale of liquor to minors and to habitual drunkards—a resolution which, if adhered to, will bring about a radical and much needed improvement in the saloon business.

Arrested for Perjury.

Ernest Hall was arrested last week for perjury and upon being brought up for examination took an adjournment until August 8.

The arrest was the outcome of a case that occurred a few weeks ago in which C. M. Remo was arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals, it being claimed by Hall that Mr. Remo shot Hall's dog. He told such a straight story that Mr. Remo was convicted.

Thru the confession of another man who did shoot the dog, it was brought out that Mr. Remo had nothing whatever to do with the matter. Hall was fixed at $200 which was furnished by Hall.

No More Horse Play.

No more will the likes be required to ride the goat, climb a greased pole or do other "stunts" in connection with his initiation.

The last important action of the grand lodge of Elks, which has been in convention all of last week, was to abolish absolutely all horseplay and having in the initiatory rites of the order. This ends a light that has been waged for a decade by a constantly growing element in the organization, which contended that the horseplay deterred many men from presenting themselves as members who would be towers of strength to the order.

Going to State Fair.

T. A. Taylor, secretary of the Grand Rapids band, received a communication from the secretary of the state fair association on Thursday definitely engaging the local band for two days at the state fair. The fair occurs this year from the 12th to 16th of September inclusive.

Attorney Hambrecht of this city put himself out considerably to secure this job for the band and is entitled to considerable credit and thanks for the interest he displayed in the matter.

Underwent an Operation.

Gust Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Giese of the town of Grand Rapids, who is machinist mate on the U. S. S. Paulthier, was recently compelled to undergo an operation for appendicitis at the Naval Hospital at Chelsea. Mr. Giese was stricken with the malady while the boat was at sea and a race was made to get him ashore so that the operation might be performed at the hospital. At last reports he was getting along all right.

Going to Build a Depot.

No need at all to be discouraged about that St. Paul depot. Attorney Geo. L. Williams received a communication last week from one of the chief moguls of the St. Paul company stating that work on the new depot would commence soon after the first of August.

Building is to be Remodeled.

The building belonging to the Hoskinson estate, which was badly damaged by fire, will immediately be rebuilt, and a gang of workmen under the supervision of Louis Schaefer has started on the work. The loss, which amounted to about $3000, was settled by the insurance company last week.

Good Rainfall.

In repairing the damage done by the fire it is the intention to remodel the building to a considerable extent so as to make it more modern and up to date and also improve the appearance of it to a considerable extent. Where this building is located is one of the best business corners on the west side and with a modern building there would always be in good demand at a fair price.

Liked Our City.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Polling and driver of Prospect, Ill., stopped in the city Saturday night, being on an auto trip from Prospect to Ashland where they were going to fish. Their car came in here with a broken spring and some minor repairs which were attended to at the Huntington garage. The doctor, upon starting out on his trip again Sunday morning, stated that he had never been in a town where he was used so well as in Grand Rapids and that if he ever came this way again he would be sure to stop here.

Meeting a Success.

The meeting of the Ninth Council district Medical association held at the Crooked Rift Road and Road Club house last Thursday afternoon was a most successful affair from start to finish.

About forty doctors were in attendance they being taken up river in automobiles. Several good papers were read, after which there was a feed, and the meeting proved not only instructive but entertaining as well.

Making a Park.

The vacant lot on the corner of Third and Grand Avenues has been plowed up and leveled off and seeded down and later on will have seats placed about it where the weary pedestrian may rest while waiting for the street car. This lot is the property of the Bank of Grand Rapids, and that corner where the lot is located is already greatly improved in appearance. Ben Hansen has charge of the work.

Hay Will be Scarce.

From all indications hay will be scarce in many sections the coming winter, also the hay crop right in this locality is fairly good. Farmers and others in this section who have any hay should cut and cure it in good shape, even though it may not be of very high grade, and if prices go up to what is expected at the present time they will realize on it later in the season.

Wm. Hiles, son of James Hiles of Dexterville, was operated upon at Riverview Hospital on Thursday by Dr. O. T. Hoenes of this city, as follows: Dr. Ed. Hoenes of Pittsville. At last reports he was getting along nicely.

Students who are chronic failures and who take the course in agriculture because it is the only thing left that they haven't failed in, should also be excluded, declares Prof. Hatch, who also strenuously opposes the system of formal text book teaching.

Teaching agriculture to the exclusion of other important high school work is the fourth thing that should not be found in a properly regulated course.

The introduction of course of agriculture in the high schools of Wisconsin is an outgrowth of the movement to give students who intend to go no farther than the high school training in branches which will enable them to make their own living after leaving school. The introduction of courses in manual arts, domestic science, bookkeeping and stenography in the high school are all expressions of the tendency to have high school students gain practical knowledge along with the more cultural high school studies, such as Latin, literature and history. Means are being provided so that students may study the subjects which will help them to make a living in after life, and at the same time allow them to acquire an education that is, broad, cultural and in no way limited by the demands of their vocation.

Five distinct fields of agriculture are covered in the outline for the course provided by Prof. Hatch. These subjects are farm mechanics, which includes a study of how to plan and build barns, silos, culverts, and roads, and furnishes some practice in making blue prints and using ordinary drawing instruments; farm management, which is concerned with the keeping of farm accounts, farm records, the making of notes, mortgages, bills, receipts, contracts, and other forms of business which involves knowledge of commercial law; plant husbandry, in which study will be given to the various plant diseases and bacterial diseases of animals, to judging and testing, the identification of weeds, and investigation of legumes and forage plants, in addition to work in gardening and plant propagation; animal husbandry, the fourth field to be covered in the course, is concerned with breeds of live stock and how to distinguish good animals from poor, stock judging, the care of poultry, and a study of insects with a view to controlling their ravages on plants; agricultural chemistry and soils, the fifth great agricultural division, which takes up a study of dairying and dairy practices, feeds and feeding, soils and fertilizers, and the principles of land drainage.

In addition to complete outlines of every subject which is likely to be included in a high school course in agriculture, Prof. Hatch has furnished a list of 116 reference and text books, suitable for a library on agriculture for high schools, as well as a list of 51 free bulletins furnished by the University of Wisconsin on agricultural subjects.

D. E. Woodruff of Vesper was in the city on Tuesday looking after some business matters. Mr. Woodruff expects to leave soon for the state of Maryland, where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. John Maxwell, and if he likes it there he will probably spend the coming fall and winter there.

The remains of Mrs. Josephine Bailey, who died in Milwaukee on Friday as the result of an operation, were brought to this city on Monday and taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bever, being subsequently interred in Calvary cemetery. The deceased was 42 years of age and is survived by a husband.

COUNCIL HOLDS INTERESTING MEET

At the meeting of the city council last night it was decided that the fire ordinance was invalid so that nothing could be done about the Colton matter and it was dropped. A new ordinance will be drawn.

The matter of granting a license to Chas. Giese, which has hung fire for some time, was taken up and Mr. Giese was granted a license.

The city engineer made a report on the experiments that have been made in securing water and a committee was appointed to see Mr. E. J. Wood to find what the property could be purchased for in the locality where the wells have been driven.

The matter of widening Oak street was taken up, the committee having reported that the property owners were dissatisfied with the offer made them. The board of public works will hold a meeting today to consider the matter.

The paving business was taken up and it was decided to start the work of securing supplies this fall, so that the work could be carried forward in the spring without delay.

The matter of the injury to Wm. Johnson, who recently had a leg broken while in the employ of the city, was taken up, as under the new law it is thought that the city is liable.

I, the undersigned M. G. Gordon, City Clerk of the City of Grand Rapids, hereby give notice that the assessment roll for the said city of Grand Rapids, for the year 1911, has been completed by the assessor and delivered to me as such city clerk and is now in my custody in my office as such city clerk.

Further that on the 12th day of August, 1911 at nine o'clock A. M. at the Council Chambers for said City of Grand Rapids, and continuously thereafter said assessment roll will be open for examination and inspection by the taxable inhabitants of the said City of Grand Rapids; and that on the 14th day of August, 1911, the said assessment roll will be submitted to the Board of Review of said City for further action thereon by said Board of Review as provided for by law; that said Board of Review will also meet at the said Council Chamber for said City of Grand Rapids.

Dated this 1st day of August, 1911.
M. G. Gordon,
City Clerk,
City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin.

Stahl-Abel.

Miss Lydia Stahl and Frank Abel were married at five o'clock this morning at St. Peter and Paul church Rev. Wm. Reding officiating. They were accompanied by Miss Mollie Stahl and Henry Abel as bridesmaid and groomsmen.

Both of the contracting parties are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Frank Stahl of this city and a most estimable young lady, while the groom is one of the firm of Abel & Podawiltz, and one of our rising young business men.

The Tribune unites with their many friends in extending congratulations and wishing them a long life of happiness.

Baby Show a Success.

The baby show held at the Amusement hall last Thursday afternoon by the ladies of the Methodist church was a decided success from every standpoint. The prizes were won by June Linderman, Victor Young, Donald Herschleb and Leanna Goodrich, the prizes depending on the number of votes the youngsters got.

The ladies of St. Peter and Paul church served ice cream on the court house grounds during the band concert last Thursday evening. As the weather was pleasant and a good crowd of the ladies were kept waiting to supply the wants of those in attendance.

Retail Liquor Dealers.

The State Liquor Dealers' association, at their state convention recently held at Ashland, closed with the adoption of an amendment to the constitution, making a radical change in the conditions of membership in the association. The reference made during the convention to the equalizing of the interests of the brewers and retail dealers culminated with the adoption of this amendment, which provided that no persons may be members of the association except owners of retail saloons. This shuts all brewers or their representatives from membership and the action caused much feeling to be displayed on the part of the representatives of the brewers who were delegates.

The association, by formal resolutions which were passed, also went on record as being opposed to the sale of liquor to minors and to habitual drunkards—a resolution which, if adhered to, will bring about a radical and much needed improvement in the saloon business.

Arrested for Perjury.

Ernest Hall was arrested last week for perjury and upon being brought up for examination took an adjournment until August 8.

The arrest was the outcome of a case that occurred a few weeks ago in which C. M. Renne was arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals, it being claimed by Hall that Mr. Renne shot Hall's dog. He told such a straight story that Mr. Renne was convicted.

Then the confession of another man who did shoot the dog, it was brought out that Mr. Renne had nothing whatever to do with the matter. Hall was fixed at $300 which was furnished by Hall.

No More Horse Play.

No more will the Elks be required to ride the goat, climb a greased pole or do other "stunts" in connection with his initiation.

The last important action of the grand lodge of Elks, which has been in convention all of last week, was to abolish absolutely all horseplay and having in the initiatory rites of the order.

This ends a fight that has been waged for a decade by a constantly growing element in the organization, which contended that the horseplay deterred many men from presenting themselves as members who would be towers of strength to the order.

Going to State Fair.

T. A. Taylor, secretary of the Grand Rapids band, received a communication from the secretary of the state fair association on Thursday definitely engaging the local band for two days at the state fair. The fair occurs this year from the 12th to 16th of September inclusive.

Attorney Hambrecht of this city put himself out considerably to secure this job for the band and is entitled to considerable credit and thanks for the interest he displayed in the matter.

Underwent an Operation.

Gust Giese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Giese of the town of Grand Rapids, who is machinist mate on the U. S. S. Fautler, was recently compelled to undergo an operation for appendicitis at the Naval Hospital at Chelsea. Mr. Giese was stricken with the malady while the boat was at sea and a race was made to get him ashore so that the operation might be performed at the hospital. At last reports he was getting along all right.

Notice of Teachers' Examinations.

From a Former Resident.

A. N. Palmer, who left here about four years ago and located in Kansas City, Mo., writes that he and his family are enjoying the best of health. He says "We are having some fine weather now, although the summer has been hot and dry. Saw an article in last week's Tribune from some fellow who had been thru Kansas. Think that fellow was a little off in some of his statements. While I have a great big place in my heart for Wisconsin, want to say that this and eastern Kansas is a mighty fine country. True, this has been an awful dry season, an exception, and crops may not be any where what they ought to be. But if you could see some of those Kansas farmers drive into town in their big autos, you would see that they were not so worried about the dry spell." Mr. Palmer is now engaged in the hardware business in company with Fred H. Pope, and reports that they are getting along nicely. In closing he wishes to be remembered to his friends in Grand Rapids.

Building is to be Remodeled.

The building belonging to the Rockwood estate, which was badly damaged by fire, will immediately be rebuilt, and a gang of workmen under the supervision of Louis Schneider has started on the work. The loss, which amounted to about $4,000, was settled by the insurance company last week.

In repairing the damage done by the fire it is the intention to remodel the building to a considerable extent so as to make it more modern and up to date and also improve the appearance of it to a considerable extent.

Where this building is located is one of the best business corners on the west side and with a modern building there would always be in good demand at a fair price.

Good Rainfall.

Will Raymond, who has charge of the government rain gauge, reports that during the month of July there was a total of two and ninety-three hundredths inches of rain fell here. During the rain of Monday night there was a precipitation of 61-100 inches. This is no more than the average rainfall in this locality, but is a little more than generally falls in July.

Reports from the potato and corn districts is to the effect that those crops are now looking fine and there is every indication that there will be a good yield.

Liked Our City.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Poling and driver of Freeport, Ill., stopped in the city Saturday night, being on an auto trip from Freeport to Ashland where they were going to fish. Their car came in here with a broken spring and some minor repairs which were attended to at the Huntington garage. The doctor, upon starting out on his trip again Sunday morning, stated that he had never been in a town where he was used so well as in Grand Rapids and that if he ever came this way again he would be sure to stop here.

Meeting a Success.

The meeting of the Ninth Council district Medical association held at the Crooked Rift Road and Ruel Club house last Thursday afternoon was a most successful affair from start to finish.

About forty doctors were in attendance they being taken up river in automobiles. Several good papers were read, after which there was a feed, and the meeting proved not only instructive but entertaining as well.

Making a Park.

The vacant lot on the corner of Third and Grand Avenues has been plowed up and leveled off and seeded down and later on will have some placed about it where the weary pedestrian may rest while waiting for the street car. This lot is the property of the Bank of Grand Rapids, and that corner where this lot is located is already greatly improved in appearance. Ben Hansen has charge of the work.

Hay Will be Scarce.

From all indications hay will be scarce in many sections the coming winter, although the hay crop right in this locality is fairly good. Farmers and others in this section who have any hay should cut and cure it in good shape, even though it may not be of very high grade, and if prices go up to what is expected at the present time they will realize on it later in the season.

Going to Build a Depot.

No need at all to be discouraged about that St. Paul depot. Attorney Geo. L. Williams received a communication last week from one of the chief moguls of the St. Paul company stating that work on the new depot would commence soon after the first of August.

Will Visit the Old Country.

Nic Thomas and John Bamberg expect to leave in the near future for the old country for a visit at their old homes. Mr. Bamberg is from Luxembourg and Mr. Thomas from Belgium.

Notice.

I hereby warn all persons not to trust my wife Rosie or any of her children on my account, as I will not be responsible for debts contracted by them.
Simon Stellanovich.

Wm. Hiles, son of James Hiles of Dexterville, was operated upon at Riverview Hospital on Thursday by Dr. O. T. Hogen of this city, assisted by Dr. Ed. Hogen of Pittsville. At last reports he was getting along nicely.

A Chicago millionaire came to this country in 1871, with 12 cents in his pocket. The other day, referring to it, he said he laid down this rule: "Never to let out of work and never to spend as much as you earn." It was that rule that made him a millionaire, and that is the kind of millionaire that is entitled to honor. His idea is that it is good for a man to save, for economy is a healthy habit, says the Ohio State Journal. As a rule man can live on half they spend, have better health, and can do more work. Let a man sit down and make a list of what he needs, not want, but need, and he will be surprised how many things he can cut out and yet keep body and mind in fine condition. There are many things that one buys that are the objects of his fancy. He sees them and wants them; if he didn't see them he wouldn't want them. We once heard of a man who would not go to market because he said, he wanted to buy everything, and succeeded in buying much he did not need. It is possible to live well on means that average only 10 cents per capita. In a school on the west side they do it, and that little club of teachers are hearty and happy as robins in a cherry tree. We must get out of the idea that great chunks of heavy food are required for energy. As a rule they reduce it.

The bureau of animal industry has devised what appears to be a breakfast food for horses, with the purpose to reduce the high cost of their living. This substitute for oats is composed of coconut and peanut meals and it can be produced for $15 less a ton than whole oats cost. It appears that the horses experimented with did not take eagerly to the new ration at first; quite as human beings used to find their breakfast foods cloying until a taste was expressly cultivated. The horses had to get the habit without the encouragement which a liberal application of cream and sugar affords the bipeds. In due time, however, the animals recovered their form on the novel diet. "The ration must be unquestionably justified, nevertheless, before it can be commended to those who truly love a horse. It is not the animal's fault that oats have become a luxury. Human beings have been induced to eat this natural fodder in enormous quantities and that is the reason."

A German expedition which went to German East Africa to search for dinosaurian remains reports the discovery of bones larger than any heretofore exhibited in other parts of the world. One specimen which has been secured is a humerus 6 feet 10 1/2 inches in length. This would indicate a thigh bone of nine feet. Heretofore the diplocephalus has been considered the great-grandfather of colossal land animals of all times. But the length of the humerus of the diplocephalus was only three feet eleven inches. It is very safe to say of the prehistoric geological agent that "there were giants in those days."

The American bullfrog is to be introduced into Japan by a young Japanese who was graduated from an American agricultural college this year. Chorus of large, healthy American frogs, bellowing "To-go! To-go!" from the marshes should add much to the charm of Japanese life and strengthen the ties between the two countries.

Still another doctor is added to the list of those who are being sued for sewing up various articles in the bodies of their patients operated upon. In this last case it is a corpse. This sort of thing is apt to make patients nervous over the prospect of having a junk department added to the original plan of their interior economy.

It is pointed out that there is no danger of overdoing the apple raising business, as the frequent crop failures keep down the production. Yet this does not seem to be a good argument to address to prospective but hesitating investors.

EVER LORIMER FOE

MANAGER OF CHICAGO TRIBUNE TESTIFIES PAPER FOUGHT SENATOR ALWAYS.

TELLS OF WHITE CONFESSION

Hines Declares Ex-Congressman Boutwell Gave Him Word as to Taft's Attitude on Illinois Senatorial Election—Brings in Unsettled Note.

Washington.—James K. Hines, general manager and editor of the Chicago Tribune, which first printed the confession of Charles A. White on graft in the Illinois legislature, testified before the senatorial committee. He said the Joseph Medill estate was the largest stockholder of the Tribune corporation.

"Was the Tribune always an enemy of Senator Lorimer?" asked Attorney Marble.

"I would say that the Tribune always was opposed to Mr. Lorimer," said Mr. Hines, "but the next day after he was elected to the senate it printed an editorial which would show that it had no distinct hostility to him."

"The editorial was read into the record."

Mr. Hines said he obtained possession of the White confession approximately March 1, 1910, and it was printed on April 30, following. He said its publication had no relation any unpleasantness with Mr. Lorimer or Mr. Hines.

The only unpleasantness, if it could be called such, between himself and Hines, said Mr. Kelley, grew out of the lumber tariff.

Mr. Kelley said Hines had come to see him about the lumber tariff and when they disagreed as to the Tribune's course on lumber, Hines remarked:

"Why, I have given you $600 recently."

The witness said Hines explained he had a page advertisement in the Tribune and given $600 for it.

"It seemed to regard it as a gift," continued Mr. Kelley.

"I explained that there was absolutely no connection between the advertising and editorial columns of our paper, and so I gave him back the $600."

Before the publication of the White story Mr. Kelley said he had discussed it with Governor Deussen. He asked the governor, who had been state attorney for eight years, how to verify the story.

"Can you tell me what the cost to the Tribune of this investigation was?" asked Attorney Marble for the committee.

"About $20,000. Here are the vouchers,"

Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, preceded Mr. Kelley on the witness stand.

One of the most interesting parts of Mr. Hines' testimony had to do with an unsigned note to him from former Congressman H. S. Boutwell. This note was as follows:

"I should like to have the senator know who was the only man in Washington to go to the president in his behalf and bring off the goods."

Mr. Hines said Mr. Boutwell saw President Taft a few days before Senator Lorimer's election and reported that the president had promised him to support the Lorimer candidacy. This note was only found by Mr. Hines among his papers a few days ago and had not previously figured in the case.

Introduction of this evidence concerning the part played by former Congressman Boutwell caused speculation as to whether he was not the person who asked President Taft to send a telegram to Illinois politicians urging activity on behalf of Mr. Lorimer. The president has stated that he was asked to do so and declined.

BOSTON INVADDED BY CHOLERA

Woman Suspected to Disease Which Is Traced to Sailors Taken as Lodgers—Men Disappear.

Boston.—Asiatic cholera has reached Boston and caused one death, while two foreign sailors who are believed to have brought the dread disease here after being taken ill disappeared, and their whereabouts is unknown, according to a statement given out officially by Chairman Samuel H. Durgin of the Boston board of health.

The cholera victim was Mrs. Tamasina Mastrodonato, who died at the detention hospital on Gallipoli island.

Mrs. Mastrodonato took into her home as lodgers a few weeks ago two sailors who were members of the crew of a steamer supposed to have sailed from an Italian port.

The sailors subsequently were taken ill and disappeared. Efforts are being made to locate them.

GOES OVER NIAGARA

"BOBBY" LEACH GOES OVER CATACT IN BARREL.

Tank With Man Suspended in Canvass Hammock Shoots Through Space With Speed of Cannon Ball.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—"Bobby" Leach made a trip over the Horseshoe falls in a barrel and lives to tell the tale of an experience more thrilling than any of his previous feats. Leach, who is forty-nine years old, was considerably bruised by his drop of 168 feet, but was not seriously hurt.

This is the second time in the history of the river that such a feat has been accomplished. Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor of this city made the trip in a barrel on October 24, 1901, and came out alive.

Harassed by the police on both sides of the river, Leach was forced to make his start from La Salle, two miles and a half above the cataract on the United States side. Two rivermen took him in a launch to Navy island, where everything was made shipshape and Leach was placed in the barrel. It is a steel affair, eleven feet long with ends of wood. Leach was hung in a canvas hammock.

The barrel with its passenger was cast adrift just off the mouth of Chippewa creek, hardly a mile above the brink of the Horseshoe, and was quickly caught by the rush of the upper rapids. When 500 yards from the brink the barrel was caught in the tremendous current and raced to the chasm.

Within 200 yards of the brink it stuck hard against a rock, and a large section of the wooden end was broken off. As the barrel reached the crest, it swung straight and went plunging down into the abyss on its long axis.

Hardly thirty seconds elapsed until it was seen, a red speck, careening in the spume below the cataract.

Frank Bender of Chippewa swam out to it with a rope and caught the barrel by one of its handles. From that point the barrel was towed ashore.

Leach was bleeding and appeared in a bad way, but once out of the barrel he raised himself and waved to the crowd that lined the banks. He was badly exhausted, but it was necessary to apply oxygen to revive him.

RATIFY REVISION IN COTTON

House Democrats in Caucus Vote to Reduce Customs Rates on Staple by Half.

Washington.—Democrats of the house of representatives, after a prolonged caucus, ratified by more than a two-thirds majority the cotton tariff revision bill drafted by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee. This revision reduces by nearly one-half the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law on manufacturers of cotton.

The bill was not ratified without protest, and a vigorous effort was made by many Democrats to upset the party legislative program and to prevent adjournment of the special session of congress by blowing away with a tariff revision bill drafted by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee. This revision reduces by nearly one-half the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law on manufacturers of cotton.

The committee estimates that under the new rate the revenue to be derived in 12 months from the cotton tariff will be $10,500,000, a decrease of a little more than $2,000,000 from last year under the Payne-Aldrich law.

Cotton clothing duties are reduced from 40 to 25 and 25 per cent; cotton cloth, not mercerized or bleached, cut to 15, 20 and 25 per cent. In various grades, and cloth composed of silk or mercerized cut from 24 to 25 per cent.

Though all resolutions were defeated no decisive action on the time of adjournment was taken.

MORE PAY FOR POSTAL MEN

Clerks and City Carriers to Receive Increases in Salaries Approximating $2,000,000 a Year.

Washington.—Postmaster General Hitchcock ordered promotions for post office clerks and city carriers which carry increases in salaries approximating $2,000,000 a year. Orders were issued for promotions in the railway mail service which will total $175,000 a year. These increases are in addition to the increases for rural mail carriers totaling $1,000,000 a year, which became effective July 1.

Eight Shot by Crazy Hindu.

Chicago.—A man wearing a soldier's uniform and carrying a modern Springfield rifle went suddenly insane in front of the Chicago post office. He shot eight persons, none fatally. After a terrific struggle the man was arrested and said he was M. Husan, a Hindu. He said he had determined to kill 40,000 persons and had just started. Husan gave the police a terrific fight before he was subdued.

PACT BILL PASSED

TAFT RECIPROCITY MEASURE CARRIED BY SENATE BY VOTE OF 63 TO 27.

WILL BECOME LAW JULY 26

Amendments That Encumbered Canada Pact Quickly Swept Aside When Time Came for Decisive Action—Party Lines Are Wiped Out.

Washington.—The Canadian reciprocity bill was passed by the senate by a vote of 63 ayes and 27 nays, and the measure for which congress was assembled in an extraordinary session was concluded.

President Taft did not receive the measure for signature before leaving for Beverly as the house had not yet passed the bill and the measure of the bill must take place while the branch in which it originated is in session.

Every amendment was voted down by a larger majority than that by which the original bill finally carried. In all cases where a roll call was had. On the final passage 21 Republicans voted for the bill and 24 against, 32 Democrats for it and 3 against.

The only significant thing as to votes on the various amendments was the practically unanimous disposition on the part of friends of the reciprocity measure not to allow anything to mar the agreement entered into between executive officials of the Canadian and United States governments.

Most of the votes on amendments on which there were roll calls ran from 40 to 94. The highest votes obtained in favor of any amendment were those on the Nelson cattle and farm products proposition and the McCumber scheme to prevent elimination of the duties on grain in bond. The former was defeated 23 to 58 and the latter 21 to 54.

No big crowds filled the galleries when the end came, but there were many members of the house on the floor as the finish approached. There was no controversy—just a series of roll calls which brought the main issue to a vote.

Ottawa, Ont.—The favorable action by the United States senate on the reciprocity agreement puts the government in a somewhat stronger position, but it is conceded that it will not prove a factor in breaking the present deadlock on the question in the Canadian commons. The leaders of the opposition profess to see no change in the situation and assert that they will continue the filibuster against a measure which, they claim, is the entering wedge looking to dissolution of Canada's ties with the mother country.

Under parliamentary rules the majority cannot force closure on a question of this kind. The opposition can delay a vote indefinitely by providing speakers to continue debate.

A dissolution of parliament and an appeal to the country in a general election with reciprocity as the issue is the only course left to the government, and it is expected that Premier Laurier will take advantage of the first opportunity within a fortnight.

MAINE IS OUT OF WATER

Only Thin Mud Now Hides "Secret" of 1898 Disaster—Many Bodies Are Visible.

Havana.—The second step in the great task of uncovering the Maine was completed with the pumping up of the last few feet of water surrounding the dismembered hull. The bottom of the cottonman is now nothing but mud which hides whatever there may be of the secret of the disaster of 1898.

Eleven bodies have now been found of a total of 88 missing. Identification, of course, is impossible, as all of these were underneath the wreck of the conning tower.

Many bodies are visible, plumed under tons of metal, but they cannot be recovered until the wreck is dismembered.

STEEL POOL PLANNED

ELEVEN FIRMS TO DIVIDE TRADE IS SHOWN IN U. S. INQUIRY.

Council for Big Corporation Repudiates Agreement Claiming It Was Not Signed.

Washington.—A purported pooling agreement entered into in November, 1900, between the Carnegie Steel company and ten other kindred concerns for a percentage apportionment of the steel output of the country—an admittedly illegal document supposed long since destroyed—stirred the meeting of the house "steel trust" investigating committee.

No sooner had the committee met than Chairman Stanley put into the records a copy of the alleged agreement. It first came to light through Eugene Bonnell, an attorney, and P. B. Kaufman, a printer, both of Wayne, Pa., who acquainted Chairman Stanley of their information.

Any steel company violating the terms of the agreement, it is asserted, laid itself liable to heavy penalties and fines of as much as $1,000 have been imposed. Each firm was required to make monthly sworn statements relating to shipments, production, etc., and any member who shipped more than his apportioned amount was required to pay a fine on each pound of such excess, the money collected being divided among the members who did not ship up to their allotted share.

Section 9 of the agreement, reads: "All sales between parties to these agreements shall be at full prices as provided in agreement 12 and all shipments shall be reported by the manufacturer on which a pool law will be charged the same as outside parties, the purchaser also to report shipments of all such materials so bought, for which they shall claim and receive credit."

Richard Lindbary, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, protested against the introduction of the agreement because it was not signed and because the date as given was one year in advance of the formation of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Lindbary said that there was no such agreement in the files of the steel corporation and he denied all knowledge of it, but the copy of the agreement as read was placed in the committee's report.

Better Grade of Cheese.

June brick cheese just scored at the University of Wisconsin, reached the highest average score ever made by Wisconsin on a collection of cheese exhibits.

The instructor in foreign cheese making at the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, who was one of the judges, stated that the ten entries of brick cheese were the finest in flavor, texture and workmanship of any that have ever been received at the college. Four of the ten entries were made in factories where the milk was received once a day and the other six were made from milk delivered twice a day. Since the flavor and texture were good with the exception of a trifling open body in a few of the cheese, it is plain that good milk was received at the factories from which these exhibits were sent. The water content of the cheese varied from 37 to 41 per cent. This represents the two extremes for water found in brick cheese.

Cheddar cheese broke the record for the largest exhibit this year and the workmanship on the lot was far superior to that of the May exhibit. The greatest fault was a sweet flavor, probably caused by the cows eating some green feed containing the flavor. This could have been at least partly eliminated by neutralizing the milk, because milk acid in the curd surroundings will probably take up more odors instead of losing those it already has.

Will Form Insurance Company.

Steps toward the organization of the Wisconsin Mutual Employers' Liability Insurance company were taken at Wausau at a conference of manufacturers.

The purpose of the organization is to protect the manufacturer against loss through the operation of the industrial insurance law. The insurance will embrace all of the industries of the state.

The committee appointed to formulate a plan consists of G. F. Steele, Port Edwards, chairman; H. W. Bolens, manager of Port Washington; Nathan Payne, Oshkosh; C. C. Yawkey, Wausau; E. O. Brown, Rhinelander; Neale Brown, Wausau, and W. A. Pricke, Wausau.

To War on Short Weights.

F. P. Downing, assistant chemist for the state dairy and food commission, has been transferred to the new position of chief superintendent of weights and measures for Wisconsin.

Under the new law Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emory is expected to take up the new position. The new law already is in force, and assumed to be given by Mr. Emory that it will be pushed vigorously. "The belief is warranted," said Mr. Emory, "that a large percentage of weights and measures in the state are not correct."

Humane Society to Expand.

The Wisconsin Humane society, under the direction of the new superintendent, H. L. B. Phillips, expects to do much good work during the coming year. A large branch office is to be located at Fond du Lac, and offices will be established in other cities. The society now has as many as or more branches than any other parent society in the union, according to the statistics given at the American Humane conference held in Boston.

Park Commission Meets.

The Wisconsin memorial park commission, recently appointed by Governor McGovern, met at Memorial hall in Milwaukee for organization and discussion of plans. The members are: Col. J. A. Watrous, Milwaukee; Col. C. E. Warner, Windsor; and W. J. McKay, Madison. The law providing for the park permits a reserve of 2,000 acres in the state, to be selected by the commission, and also to be purchased by the state.

Call on New Phone Law.

Compliance with the new law requiring physical connection is to be put up to telephone companies of Wisconsin immediately.

A petition is being prepared asking the railroad commission to require that the Wisconsin Telephone company connect with the toll line exchanges of the independent companies in La Crosse county and also to require the independent toll lines to connect with the Wisconsin company's exchanges.

The situation is important here because there has been an extensive development locally and on toll lines of the two opposing systems owned, respectively, by the Wisconsin Telephone company and the La Crosse Telephone company.

Both companies cover all western Wisconsin and extend a long distance to the west, but the La Crosse company is unable to reach Milwaukee, Madison or Chicago and it is to force this connection so that the subscribers of the La Crosse company may have the advantage of the toll lines that the action is taken.

GRAND RAPIDS TRIBUNE

GRAND RAPIDS, WIS.
SAVING AND EARNING.

A Chicago millionaire came to this country in 1871, with 12 cents in his pocket. The other day, referring to it, he said he laid down this rule: "Never to be out of work and never to spend as much as you earn." It was that rule that made him a millionaire, and that is the kind of millionaire that is entitled to honor. His idea is that it is good for a man to save, for economy is a healthy habit, says the Ohio State Journal. As a rule, men can live on half they spend, have better health, and can do more work. Let a man sit down and make a list of what he needs, not scantily but boundedly, and he can cut out and yet keep body and mind in fine condition. There are many things that one buys that are the objects of his fancy. He sees them and wants them; if he didn't see them he wouldn't want them. We once heard of a man who would not go to market because he said, he wanted to buy everything, and succeeded in buying much he did not need. It is possible to live well on means that average only 10 cents per capita. In a school on the west side they do it, and that little club of teachers are hearty and happy as robins in a cherry tree. We must get out of the idea that great chunks of heavy food are required for energy. As a rule they reduce it.

The bureau of animal industry has devised what appears to be a breakfast food for horses, with the purpose to reduce the high cost of their living. This substitute for oats is composed of coconut and peanut meals and it can be produced for $15 less a ton than whole oats cost. It appears that the horses experimented with did not take eagerly to the new ration at first, quite as human beings used to find their breakfast foods cloying until a taste was expressly cultivated. The horses had to get the habit without the encouragement which a liberal application of cream and sugar affords the bipeds. In due time, however, the animals recovered their form on the novel diet. The ration must be unquestionably justified, nevertheless, before it can be commended to those who truly love a horse. It is not the animal's fault that oats have become a luxury. Human beings have been induced to eat its natural fodder in enormous quantities and that is the reason.

A German expedition which went to German East Africa to search for dinosaurian remains reports the discovery of bones larger than any heretofore exhibited in other parts of the world. One specimen which has been secured is a humerus 6 feet 10 1/2 inches in length. This would indicate a thigh bone of a huge feline. Heretofore the diplocephalus has been considered the largest of the dinosaurian animals of all times. But the length of the humerus of the diplocephalus was only three feet eleven inches. It is very safe to say of the prehistoric geological ages that "there were giants in those days."

EVER LORIMER FOE

MANAGER OF CHICAGO TRIBUNE TESTIFIES PAPER FOUGHT SENATOR ALWAYS.

TELLS OF WHITE CONFESSION

Hines Declares Ex-Congressman Boutell Gave Him Word as to Taft's Attitude on Illinois Senatorial Election—Brings in Unsigned Note.

Washington.—James Kealey, general manager and editor of the Chicago Tribune, which first printed the confession of Charles A. White on page 1 of the Illinois legislature, testified before the senatorial committee.

He said the Joseph Medill estate was the largest stockholder of the Tribune corporation.

"Was the Tribune always an enemy of Senator Lorimer?" asked Attorney Marble.

"I would say that the Tribune always was opposed to Mr. Lorimer," said Mr. Kealey, "but the next day after he was elected to the senate it printed an editorial which would show that it had no distinct hostility to him."

The editorial was read into the record.

Mr. Kealey said he obtained possession of the White confession approximately March 4, 1910, and it was printed on April 30, following. He said its publication had no relation any unpleasantness with Mr. Lorimer or Mr. Hines.

The only unpleasantness, if it could be called such, between himself and Hines, said Mr. Kealey, grew out of the lumber tariff.

Mr. Kealey said Hines had come to see him about the lumber tariff and when they disagreed as to the Tribune's course on lumber, Hines remarked:

"Why, I have given you $600 recently."

The witness said Hines explained he had a page advertisement in the Tribune and given $600 for it.

"It seemed to regard it as a gift," continued Mr. Kealey.

"I explained that there was absolutely no connection between the advertisement and editorial columns of our paper, and so I gave him back the $600."

Before the publication of the White story Mr. Kealey said he had discussed it with Governor Deneen. He asked the governor, who had been state attorney for eight years, how to verify the story.

"Can you tell me what the cost to the Tribune of this investigation was?" asked Attorney Marble for the committee.

"About $20,000. Here are the vouchers,"

Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, preceded Mr. Kealey on the witness stand.

One of the most interesting parts of Mr. Hines' testimony had to do with an unsigned note to him from former Congressman (T. S. Boutell. This note was as follows:

"I should like to have the senator know who was the only man in Washington to go to the president in his behalf and bring off the goods."

Mr. Hines said Mr. Boutell saw President Taft a few days before Senator Lorimer's election and reported that the president had promised him to support the Lorimer candidacy. The note was only found by Mr. Hines among his papers a few days ago and had not previously figured in the case.

Introduction of this evidence concerning the part played by former Congressman Boutell caused speculation that the president had promised him to support the Lorimer candidacy. The note was only found by Mr. Hines among his papers a few days ago and had not previously figured in the case.

BOSTON INVADED BY CHOLERA

Woman Succumb to Disease Which Is Traced to a Few Days Taken as Lodgers—Men Disappear.

Boston.—Asiatic cholera has reached Boston and caused one death, while two foreign sailors who are believed to have brought the dread disease here after being taken ill disappeared and their whereabouts is unknown, according to a statement given out officially by the health department.

The cholera victim was Mrs. Tamassino Mastrodencio, who died at the detention hospital on Gallipoli island.

Mrs. Mastrodencio took into her home as lodgers a few weeks ago two sailors who were members of the crew of a steamer supposed to have sailed from the Italian port.

The sailors subsequently were taken ill and disappeared. Efforts are being made to locate them.

GOES OVER NIAGARA

"BOBBY" LEACH GOES OVER CATAWAT IN BARREL.

Tank With Man Suspended in Canvas Hammock Shoots Through Space With Speed of Cannon Ball.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—"Bobby" Leach made a trip over the Horseshoe falls in a barrel and lives to tell the tale of an experience more thrilling than any of his previous feats. Leach, who is forty-nine years old, was considerably bruised by his drop of 158 feet, but was not seriously hurt.

This is the second time in the history of the river that such a feat has been accomplished. Mrs. Anna Edson Taylor of this city made the trip in a barrel on October 24, 1901, and came out alive.

Hurried by the police on both sides of the river, Leach was forced to make his start from the falls in a barrel, a half above the cataraict, on the United States side. Two rivermen took him in a launch to Navy Island, where everything was made shipshape and Leach was placed in the barrel. It is a steel affair, eleven feet long with ends of wood. Leach was hung in a canvas hammock.

The barrel with its passenger was cast adrift just off the mouth of Chippewa creek, hardly a mile above the brink of the Horseshoe, and was quickly caught by the rush of the upper rapids. When 500 yards from the brink the barrel was caught in the tremendous current and raced to the chasm.

Within 200 yards of the brink it struck head against a rock, and a large section of the wooden end was broken off. As the barrel reached the crest, it swung straight and went plunging down into the abyss on its long axis.

Hardly thirty seconds elapsed until it was seen, a red speck, careening in the space below the cataraict. Frank Bender of Chippewa swung out to it with a rope and caught the barrel by one of its handles. From that point the barrel was towed ashore.

Leach was bleeding and appeared in a bad way, but once out of the barrel he raised himself and found he was badly exhausted and it was necessary to apply oxygen to revive him.

RATIFY REVISION IN COTTON

House Democrats in Caucus Vote to Reduce Customs Rates on Staple by Half.

Washington.—Democrats of the house of representatives, after a prolonged session, ratified by more than a two-thirds majority the cotton tariff revision bill drafted by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee. This revision reduces by nearly one-half the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law on manufactures of cotton.

The bill was not ratified without protest, and a vigorous effort was made by many Democrats to upset the party legislative program and to prevent adjournment of the special session of congress by blowing away with tariff revision all down the line, even if such action would throw the session into the last fall.

The committee estimates that under the new rate the revenue to be derived in 12 months from the cotton tariff will be $10,500,000, a decrease of a little more than $3,000,000 from last year under the Payne-Aldrich law.

Cotton clothing duties are reduced from 35 and 25 per cent; cotton cloth, not mercerized or bleached, to 15, 20 and 25 per cent. In various grades, and cloth composed of silk or mercerized cotton from 42.46 to 25 per cent.

Though all resolutions were defeated, no decisive action on the time of adjournment was taken.

TAFT RECIPROCITY MEASURE CARRIED BY SENATE BY VOTE OF 53 TO 27.

Washington.—The Canadian reciprocity bill was passed by the senate by a vote of 53 ayes and 27 nays, and the business for which congress was assembled in extraordinary session was concluded.

President Taft did not receive the measure for signature before leaving for Denver as the house had adjourned before the senate took the final vote. The bill took the form of a bill, while the branch in which it originated is in session.

Washington.—A purported pooling agreement entered into in November, 1900, between the Carnegie Steel company and ten other kindred concerns for a percentage apportionment of the steel output of the country—an admittedly illegal document supposedly long since destroyed—stirred the meeting of the house "steel trust" investigating committee.

No sooner had the committee met than Chairman Stanley put into the records a copy of the alleged agreement. It first came to light through Eugene Bonnewell, an attorney, and F. B. Kauffman, a job printer, both of Wayne, Pa., who acquired Chairman Stanley of their information.

The agreement, it is asserted, laid itself liable to heavy penalties and fines of as much as $1,000 have been imposed. Each firm was required to make monthly sworn statements relating to shipments, selling prices, production, etc., and any member who shipped more than his apportioned amount was required to pay a fine on each pound of such excess, the money collected being divided among the members who did not ship up to their allotted share.

Section 9 of the agreement, reads: "All sales between parties to these agreements shall be at full prices, as provided in agreement B and all shipments shall be reported by the manufacturer, on which a pool tax will be charged the same as outside parties, the purchaser also to report shipments of all such materials so bought, for which they shall claim and receive credit."

Richard Lindabury, counsel for the United States Steel corporation, protested against the introduction of copy of the agreement because it was not signed and because the date as given was one year in advance of the formation of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Lindabury said that there was no such agreement in the steel corporation and he denied all knowledge of it, but the copy of the agreement as read was placed in the committee's report.

MAINE IS OUT OF 'ATER

Only Thin Mud Now Hides "Secret" of 1898 Disaster—Many Bodies Are Visible.

Havana.—The second step in the great task of uncovering the Maine was completed with the pumping up of the last few feet of water surrounding the dismembered hull. The bottom of the coterminous is now visible, and the bodies of the crew, whatever there may be of the secret of the disaster of 1898.

Eleven bodies have now been found of a total of 88 missing. Identification, of course, is impossible, as all of these were underneath the wreck of the conning tower.

Many bodies are visible, pinned under tons of metal, but they cannot be recovered until the wreck is dismembered.

No Vote on 1912 Choice.

Fremont, Neb.—The Democratic state convention refused to endorse the candidacy of any individual for the presidential nomination in 1912. It had been expected that an effort would be made to have Governor Harmon of Ohio endorsed.

Mrs. Goodwin Wins Decree.

New York.—Justice Bischoff in the supreme court granted the final decree in the divorce action brought by Edna Goodwin Goodwin against Nat Goodwin, the actor.

Wickersham in Denial.

Washington.—Attorney General Wickersham branded as falsehoods the charges of Delegate Wickersham of Alaska, that the attorney general had "shielded Alaskan criminals," and had allowed the statute of limitations to run in an alleged coal contract fraud case.

Last Survivor of Seminole War Dead.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—W. F. M. Rice, ninety-seven, the only survivor of the Seminole war, is dead of old age at Flint Springs, Tenn.

Articles of Incorporation Were Filed.

The Wisconsin Humane society, under the direction of the new superintendent, H. Lieb Phillips, expects to do much field work during the coming year. A large branch office is to be located at Fond du Lac, and offices will be established in other cities. The society now has as many as or more branches than any other parent society in the union, according to the statistics given at the American Humane conference held in Boston.

New Corporations.

Articles of incorporation were filed in the office of Secretary of State Frear as follows:

The Rosedale Cheese Factory association, capital $2,000, for the purpose of manufacturing cheese.

The Schaeffer-Zeller Printing company, Milwaukee, an amendment increasing its capital from $7,000 to $20,000.

The Rib Lake Co-operative company, Rib Lake, capital $10,000, for the purpose of manufacturing lumber.

Corporators, P. J. Cullen, John Schrieber, William Tetzlaff and Fred Everson.

AVIATORS TO BE AT STATE FAIR

Glenn H. Curtiss Will Be Seen in Flights at Exhibit.

AEROPLANES OF WAR TYPE

Problem of Securing Suitable Place to Alight Only Obstacle—Passengers May Be Carried.

Madison.—The Wisconsin state fair management closed contracts with Glenn H. Curtiss for the appearance during fair week of two of his latest models of the war type of aeroplanes, adopted by the United States army and navy. This is the most important aviation contract made by the Curtiss company for the fall aviation meetings. Curtiss stipulates in his contract that both aeroplanes will participate in the military maneuvers to be conducted on the fair grounds September 16 by federal troops and the Wisconsin National Guard.

At the next meeting of the state board of agriculture the special attraction committee will endeavor to have the board grade the entire infield of the half-mile track, so that the aviators can mount and dismount to the best advantage. At any rate, a plateau sufficiently large to permit of both machines alighting safely and affording sufficient space to take flight without danger will be provided. Obstacles on the infield will be removed and every facility will be afforded the Curtiss birdmen to perform all the stunts that have made aerial navigation elsewhere a sensational and interesting spectacle.

While not definitely decided, the matter of permitting one of the aviators to fly from the fair grounds and alight on the city hall or some other skyscraper, providing there is roof space sufficient to permit of safety in landing, will be taken up by the special attraction committee in a few days. If this is done it will be scheduled for the day of the military maneuvers when the aeroplanes will be used to return to the camping grounds with the information concerning the imaginary enemy that may be ready to attack from the lake.

The aeroplanes of the war department will be represented at the military maneuvers, and it is also possible that there may be flights with two or three persons accompanying the aviators on one or more days during the week.

Better Grade of Cheese.

June brick cheese just scored at the University of Wisconsin, reached the highest average score ever made in cheese exhibition.

The instructor in foreign cheese making at the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, who was one of the judges, stated that the ten entries of brick cheese were the finest in flavor, texture and workmanship of any that have ever been received at the college. Four of the entries were made in factories where the milk was received once a day and the other six were made from milk delivered twice a day. Since the flavor and texture were good with the exception of a trifling open body in a few of the cheeses, it is plain that good milk was received from the factories on which these exhibits were sent. The water content of the cheese varied from 37 to 41 per cent. This represents the two extremes for water found in brick cheese.

Cheedar cheese broke the record for the largest exhibit this year and the workmanship of the cheese was superior to that of the May exhibit. The greatest fault was a sweet flavor, probably caused by the cows eating some green feed containing the flavor. This could have been at least partly eliminated by aerating the milk, because milk aerated in unsanitary surroundings will probably take up more odors instead of losing those it already has.

Will Form Insurance Company.

Steps toward the organization of the Wisconsin Mutual Employers' Liability Insurance company were taken at Wausau at a conference of manufacturers. The purpose of the organization is to insure the manufacturers against loss through the operation of the industrial insurance law. The insurance will embrace all of the industries of the state.

The committee appointed to formulate a plan consists of G. F. Steele, Port Edwards, chairman; H. W. Dolens, mayor of Port Washington; Nathan Faine, Oshkosh; C. C. Yawkey, Wausau; E. O. Brown, Rhinelander; Neale Brown, Wausau, and W. A. Fricke, Wausau.

To War on Short Weights.

F. P. Downing, assistant chemist for the state dairy and food commission, has been transferred to the position of chief superintendent of weights and measures for Wisconsin. Under the new law Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emory is ex-officio state superintendent. The new law already is in force, and assurance was given by Mr. Emory that it will be pushed vigorously. "The belief is warranted," said Mr. Emory, "that a large percentage of weights and measures in the state are not correct."

Call on New Phone Law.

Compliance with the new law requiring physical connection is to be put up to telephone companies of Wisconsin immediately.

A petition is being prepared asking the railroad commission to require that the Wisconsin Telephone company connect with the toll line changes of the independent companies in La Crosse, and also to require the independent toll lines to connect with the Wisconsin company's exchanges.

The situation is important here because there has been an extensive development locally and on toll lines of the two opposing systems owned, respectively, by the Wisconsin Telephone company and the La Crosse Telephone company.

Both companies cover all western Wisconsin and extend a long distance to the west, but the La Crosse company is unable to reach Milwaukee, Madison or Chicago and it is to force this connection so that the subscribers of the La Crosse company may have the advantage of the Bell lines that the action is taken.

Park Commission Meets.

The Wisconsin memorial park commission, recently appointed by Governor McGovern, met at Memorial hall in Milwaukee for organization and discussion of plans for the park. The commission consists of: Col. C. E. Warner, Windsor, and W. J. McKay, Madison. The law providing for the park permits a reserve of 2 rods square in the corner of the grounds at Camp Randall nearest the West Dayton street entrance, where a memorial arch will be erected.

SIGNAL TOWERS TO AID RANGERS

Wisconsin will use the first of western states to use signal towers as an aid to prevention of forest fires. State Forester E. M. Griff has upon his return from a trip to northern Wisconsin made known plans for the immediate erection of six steel towers, similar to windmills at as many high points of land in the state for observation in Vilas and adjoining counties. They will be constructed on concrete bases.

A platform at the top of the towers will be inclosed with a string of wires stretched at right angles to form squares, each wire to be numbered. At dry periods forest rangers will be stationed in the towers to search the landscape for smoke. When smoke is discovered, the watcher will denote its position with respect to the crossing of two of the wires in his lookout, and a map at hand will tell him in a moment the corresponding position of the smoke as to town and range and bearings. A telephone will be connected with the tower, and each ranger will be able to call up his associate rangers nearest to the fire, who will take steps to extinguish the fire at once.

This method of prevention, which is entirely new in this part of the United States, has been tried in Maine with marked efficiency. Its success in Vilas county is believed to be assured also.

The building of fire lines is going on rapidly in the state's reserves. A strip of woods not exceeding 25 feet wide is cleared, the strip extending usually from lake to lake, thousands of which dot the region named. The fire lines are intended to prevent the spread of surface fires and also give the patrols a vantage point from which they may fight the flames. Each ranger is given one and one-half towns (40,000 acres) to patrol. The rangers' cabins, now being built, will be connected by telephone.

PRESIDENT TAFT REFUTES CONTROLLER BAY CHARGES

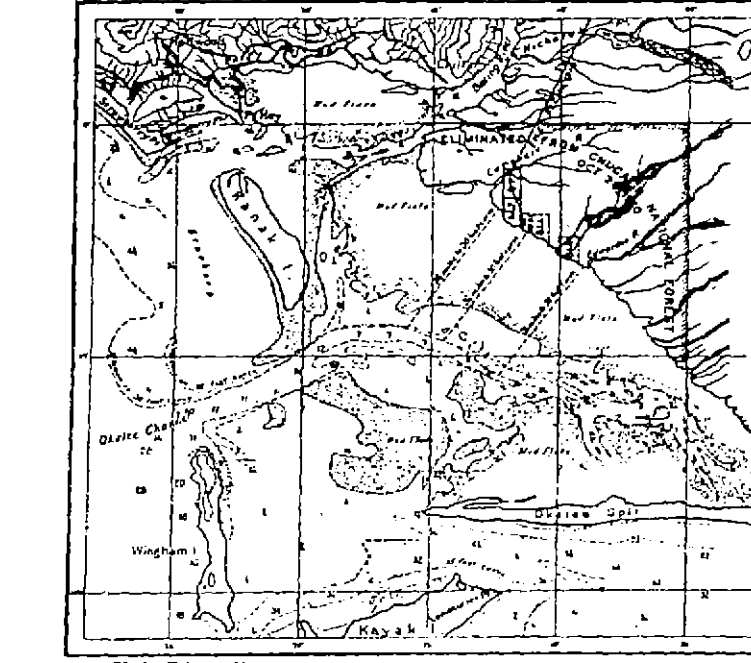

Message to the Senate Fully Explains the Transaction and Denounces the Attack on Chief Executive and His Brother as Wifeful and Malicious Falsehood.

Washington.—President Taft sent to the senate Wednesday a message that refuted some of the charges made by the Controller Bay. It was in reply to a resolution of the senate requesting the president to transmit to the senate all the documents relating to the elimination of the Chugach national forest in Alaska, of land fronting upon Controller Bay. Mr. Taft, in his message, stated that there was no such postscript in the paper which he showed them to the correspondent and that he never saw such a postscript. Stuller evidence is given by Mr. Carr and other custodians of the records in the interior department.

"Stronger evidence of the falsity and maliciously slanderous character of the alleged postscript could not be had. Its only significance is the light it throws on the bitterness and venom of some of those who take active part in every discussion of Alaskan issues."

Scandal-Mongering Denounced.

"I am in full sympathy with the concern of reasonable and patriotic men that the valuable resources of Alaska should not be turned over to be exploited for the profit of greedy, absorbing and monopolistic corporations or syndicates. Whatever the attempts which have been made, no one, as a matter of fact, has secured in Alaska any undue privilege or franchise not completely under the control of congress. I am in full agreement with the view that every care, both in administration and in legislation, must be observed to prevent the corrupt or un-

Graves, the navy department stated it did not desire to use Controller bay as a reservation; how the matter was considered fully by the forestry bureau, the secretary of agriculture, the secretary of the interior, the general land office and the cabinet. As a result, after an interview between the president and Mr. Ryan, an order was drafted eliminating 320 acres.

Meanwhile Mr. Ryan had satisfied the president and other officials that he and his associates had no connection with the Morgan-Guggenheim interests and were engaged in an independent enterprise in good faith to build an independent railroad. The question again came before the cabinet, and the president, with the approval of the secretaries of the interior and agriculture, changed the order so that it eliminated 12,800 acres, with a subject room for a railroad town. The message says: "It was willing to do this because I found the restrictions in the law sufficient to prevent the possibility of any monopoly of either the uplands or the harbor or channel by the Controller Railroad and Navigation company, or any other person or corporation. The restrictions the president sets forth at length, and shows that the Ryan company has not the slightest opportunity for exclusive appropriation of the harbor facilities unless congress shall by future act deliberately and voluntarily confer it."

Coming to the personal side of the matter, Mr. Taft says: "Before closing, I desire to allude to a circumstance which the terms of this resolution make apt and relevant. It is a widely published statement at-

SEEN AND HEARD IN WISCONSIN

Madison.—A remarkable group of Indian mounds has been discovered near the Catfish river in the town of Westport, Dane county. Among the mounds represented to that of a mound 100 feet high, the total length of 145 feet and greatest height 25 feet. In this group are also mounds of a mound of a mound and another of a mound of a mound which has been identified as mounds to represent the "water still" mound, emblem of a mound still represented among the Winnebagoes. Part of this group is an embankment shaped mound 20 feet high and 18 feet wide. All these mounds are now to the state archaeological society. A careful survey of the new mounds has been made by Secretary Charles E. Brown and the Rev. P. A. Gilmore of the society.

Madison.—The state printing board decided to ask the state civil service commission to verify if a list of persons eligible to appointment to positions of proofreaders in the offices of the secretary of state, insurance commissioner and revenue of the statutes. There are four of these positions, one paying $1,500 and three $1,200 each year. Joseph H. Hild of Madison, one of the clerks of the legislature during the recent session, will, it is understood, be appointed proofreader in the office of the revenue of the statutes.

Superior.—After calling a dish of ice cream, W. Barrett of Two Harbors, Minn., a delegate to a Knights of Pythias meeting here, was stricken and died from acute indigestion caused by the cream. The rest of the meeting, including the banquet, have been called off. There were about 200 delegates from this city, Duluth, Two Harbors, St. Paul and other cities in attendance.

Madison.—Paul J. Watrous, son of Col. J. J. Watrous of Milwaukee, was elected secretary of the new Wisconsin industrial board. The industry was not definitely fixed, but it will probably be $1,800 at the start and be increased later. Mr. Watrous served as secretary of the special legislative committee which investigated the subject of industrial insurance.

Reedsburg.—Frank Priest, a dead at the Reedsburg hospital as a result of a shooting affray at the home of Mrs. M. T. Smith. Mrs. Smith's daughter, Ann Priest, and Priest's son, Frank, were shot and killed. Mrs. Priest married the son of the Duke of Saxe, who is now accused of shooting Priest.

Manitowish.—Gottlieb Kramarczyk, aged 100, died. He came to Manitowish in 1844 as a farmer and later engaged in the liquor business up to the time he was 88. He was an Old Polish and was one of the early members of the Sons of Hermin.

Racine.—The body of a stranger, possibly Robert White of Racine, was found in a room at the Jones home in Burlington with a bullet wound through the heart. He had attempted to end his life with chloroform and, that failing, used a revolver.

Green Bay.—A new office created by the board of education, that of supervisor of graded schools, has been filled by the appointment of Henry Sutton, who will do no teaching, but devote his time to inspection of the work.

Neenah.—Louis Nuerberg of Milwaukee paid a fine for passing a worthless check. E. C. Aronson of Neenah, the complainant, alleged that the Milwaukee man passed the check more than a year ago, but the man had no money in the bank.

Green Bay.—Benjamin Gellish, aged six, of Bellevue, was left bound under a kettle of boiling water, scalding his head, back, arms and legs, died in a hospital here.

Algoma.—Senator M. W. Perry's son, with P. M. White, narrowly escaped a serious automobile accident when the family's machine plunged over an embankment on Donora hill, south of here. It crashed through fences, breaking off several posts, and landed in a ditch below a creek. The driving shaft of Perry's auto broke on the summit of the hill, and another auto took it in tow. When it struck an incline the machine started rolling and the brakes refused to work.

Kenosha.—Declaring that brewery agents are violating federal laws by peddling beer by the bottle on Kenosha streets, John P. Langman, president of the Wisconsin Retail Liquor Dealers' association, demanded an investigation.

Kenosha.—Declaring that he had spent eight of his twenty-three years in state prisons and jails, Walter Stroehlein appeared in the Municipal court and asked that he be allowed to finish serving his term of burglary and go back to prison. He had just finished serving a term at Sheboygan, and coming to Kenosha he broke into a meat market. His body was trifling. The police were out looking for clues when Stroehlein walked into the police office and said, "I've got the burglary habit, and I want to surrender myself."

Janeville.—Louis Zimmling, aged six-three, of Whitewater, a veteran of the civil war, walked out of the second story window, falling thirty feet and dying instantly. A policeman stumbled over his body in an alley. He leaves a wife and daughter in White water.

Neenah.—The first annual festival of the Eagles of the Fox River valley will be held at Wauwesa Beach on August 2. The Green Bay, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac societies will come to the picnic in excursion boats.

Madison.—Four boys, James Lewis, Harold Toft, Orin Niebel and Bruce Billig, were arrested on the charge of assaulting W. J. Smith, near the Conklin Icehouse and taking from him $1. Smith, who was with a young woman, was violently attacked and received a stunning blow below the right eye.

Crivitz.—A stock of mixed lumber, the property of R. B. Vickory of Big Sausage, was destroyed by fire. The loss was estimated at $5,300, with insurance of $1,700.

He halted, looking as if he would like to escape, but there was no way of escape. This determined-looking young woman had hit at a disadvantage.

"I do not think," he said leily, "that there is any subject which can be of mutual interest."

"Oh, yes, there is," she replied eagerly. She was quick to take advantage of this entering wedge into the man's attitude of cold reserve.

"Flesh and blood," she went on earnestly. "Is of mutual interest. Your son is yours whether you cast him off or not. You've got to hear me. I am not asking anything for myself. It's for him, your son. He's in trouble. Don't desert him at a moment like this. Whatever he may have done to deserve your anger—don't—don't deal him such a blow. You cannot realize what it means in such a critical situation. Even if you only pretend to be friendly with him—you don't need to really be friends with him. But don't you see what the effect will be if you, his father, publicly withdraw from his support? Everybody will say he's no good, that he can't rely on his father. He'll be back on him. You know what the world is. People will condemn him because you condemn him. They won't even give him a hearing. For God's sake, don't go back on him now!"

Mr. Jeffries turned and walked toward the window, and stood there gazing on the trees on the lawn. She did not see his face, but by the nervous twitching of his hands behind his back, she saw that her words had not been without effect. She waited in silence for him to say something. Presently he turned around, and she saw that his face had changed. The look of haughty pride and gloom, she had touched the chords of the father's heart. Gravely he said:

"Of course you realize that you, above all others, are responsible for his present position."

She was about to demur, but she checked herself. What did she care what they thought of her? She was fighting to save her husband, not to make the Jeffries family think better of her. Quickly she answered:

"Well, all right—I'm responsible—but don't punish him because of me."

Mr. Jeffries looked at her.

Who was this young woman who championed so warmly his own son? She was his wife, of course. But wives of a certain kind are quick to desert their husbands when they are in trouble. There must be some good in the girl, at all, he thought. Hesitatingly, he said:

"I could have forgiven him everything, everything but—"

"But me," she said promptly. "I know it. Don't you suppose I feel it, too, and don't you suppose it hurts?"

Mr. Jeffries stiffened up. This woman was evidently trying to excite his sympathy. He had no time to give her a chance to get on her feet, as he answered curtly:

"Forgive me for speaking plainly, but my son's marriage with such a woman as you has made it impossible to even consider the question of reconciliation."

With all her efforts at self-control, Annie had been more than human had not she resented the insinuation in this cruel speech. For a moment she forgot the importance of preserving amicable relations, and she retorted:

"Such a woman as me? That's pretty plain. But you're a man, and you're entitled to it as much as any other woman? She had not married Howard for his social position or his money. In fact, she had been worse off since her marriage than she was before. She married him because she loved him, and because she thought she could help him, and she was ready to go through any amount of suffering to prove her disinterested devotion. Quietly, she said:

"Yes, I know—I did wrong. But I love him, Mr. Jeffries. Believe me or not—I love him. It's my only excuse. I thought I could take care of him. He used to come to me for advice, and he's too easily influenced. You know his character is not so strong as it might be. He told me that his fellow students at college used to hypnotize him and make him do all kinds of things to amuse the other boys. He

Very Like Business Matter

Little Romance in Many of the Marriages Contracted by German Couples.

From the beginning the little German girl is trained to matrimony. "Eat your fish fresh and marry your daughter while she is young," runs the German proverb. The girl, coming from a race of practical-minded, hard-headed people with a counter-balance of idealism, has her dreams of a fairy prince. They dwindle and fade in the face of realities till at last she is glad to marry a sober business man from 10 to 30 years her senior. This discrepancy in years is due to the circumstance that a man in Germany, according to government regulations, must spend so many years in preparation for his profession that by the time he is able to support a wife he is at the age when an American man has already made the initial success of his career. But men and women are anxious enough to marry.

When other hope falls some of them advertise, for many German newspapers have a kind of marriage market in their columns. Such advertisements read:

"I am still young, strong, and with a fortune of 12,000 marks. How shall I go about getting a husband? Kind advice sought by—and so on."

"A Jewish lady, 25, beautiful, with a dowry of 200,000 marks, would like to marry a man of title and good family. She would be willing to be baptized into his religion. A meeting must be arranged for in a dignified manner."

"The manager of a good business would like to marry a pretty widow, very strong, weighing about 120, but of good figure, and with a fortune of a few thousand marks."

No one would do a lover of money, a lover of pleasure, or a lover of glory. Likewise a lover of mankind; but only he who is a lover of virtue."

Epictetus.

Foes Only During Debate

And That Ended, Reclaiming Senators Speedily Forget Their Differences.

The late John J. Ingalls, senator from Kansas, let loose in the senate one day about Conkling, Hancock and several other distinguished people. His remarks were particularly severe.

Joe Blackburn, then senator from Kentucky, was chosen to answer Ingalls, and he took a good deal of hide out of the brilliant Kansan. In one paragraph Blackburn said: "And this man has the temerity to assail Hancock—Hancock the Superb—who was giving of his life's blood on the heights of Gettysburg while the senator from Kansas was skulking along behind a regiment of Kansas jar-haws, trying those jayhaws in the capacity of judge advocate for robbing hen roosts."

There was more of the same kind, and everybody thought there would be trouble, as much as Ingalls was high spirited and Blackburn unafraid.

After the senate adjourned Blackburn and Ingalls met, face to face, in the corridor in front of the marble room. A dozen spectators looked for carnage.

Ingalls stopped, looked squarely into Blackburn's eyes and Blackburn glared back.

"Joe," said Ingalls, putting out his hand, "isn't this cruel war over?"

"It is," said Blackburn, taking the offered hand, and they went off arm in arm.—Saturday Evening Post.

Let the Children Be Happy

Do not try to make men of your boys or women of your girls, advised Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine. It is not natural. Love them. Make home just as happy a place as possible and give them relief. There is nothing sadder in life than the child who has been robbed of his childhood.

Cover for Bath tub

Many housekeepers spend a lot of time cleaning their bath tubs. Here is a way to make the work less strenuous: Cut a piece of unbleached muslin the size of the tub and round off the edges to fit it, a bias facing is then stitched round the cover, and through this a piece of tape is run. When the tub is not in use the cover is put on and tape drawn tightly under the edge. It is easy enough to wash, and spares an incredible lot of wear and tear on bath tub.

Soldier's Brave Deed

Asked what was the bravest deed he had ever seen, Lord Roberts said he remembered that while he was on his way to Lucknow his force was surrounded by a wall of fire. A little soldier, a Punjabi Mohammedan, seeing the difficulty, endeavored to open the door which barred their way. When he tried to draw the bolt one of his hands was cut off by one of the enemy; then he managed to unfasten the bolt with his other hand, which was subsequently nearly severed from the wrist.

Substitutes for Moss

Moss is not used in Japan for filling mattresses or upholstering furniture. Bamboo shavings are used for such purposes, and it is perhaps as cheap as a suitable material could be. Kapok, imported from Java, is also used; it is clean, durable and sanitary.

Microbes of a Kiss

A Pittsburg scientist declares that every kiss has a microbe. We should be careful. And dangerous ones, too, in Pittsburg.

Hampton at Gaza

A familiar story is that of Hampton pulling down the pillars of the temple at Gaza, whereby his foot fell upon the Philistines. How Hampton was able to do this is now known. Excavations on the site of Gaza show that the pillars of the temple were of wood, and rested upon foundations of stone without being fastened thereto. The strong man did, therefore, merely to push these pillars off their supporting stones, when down would come the front of the whole building.

Hornly Sitter

"I don't know what to do about this portrait," said the artist. "Can't you get the likeness of your wife, but I'm doubtful about how far to go. If I don't make it look like him the critics will roast it, and if I do he'll refuse to pay for it."

Long In One Service

Seventy years with one firm was the record of an aged clock worker who has just died at Trowbridge, Wiltshire, England. He began work when he was eight and one-half years old.

Little Things

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, of which smiles and kindness, and the obligations, given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart.—Sir Humphrey Davy.

Ungallant

A reporter was interviewing Thomas A. Edison. "And you, sir," he said to the inventor, "are you a 'baiting machine'?" "No," Mr. Edison replied, "the first one was made long before my time—out of a rib."

His special office days are as follows: At Court House, Grand Rapids every Saturday; at Mansion House, Marshfield, first and fourth Wednesday of each month; at other times, unless otherwise engaged, at his home in Vesper, Wis.

New Game Law. Through the kindness of Game warden Cole we are able to print the following changes in the fish and game laws of this state as the last legislature made them. Only those are here given which will be of interest to residents of this part of the country.

It is unlawful to kill, ship, or have in possession during any one day more than five of any variety of grouse, prairie chicken or woodcock; or more than ten partridges; or more than fifteen wild duck, coot, mudhen, plover, snipe, rail and rice hens.

Bob-white, quail, Mongolian, Chinese and English pheasants must not be killed at any time.

No person who has not a hunting license then in force may have any game birds in his possession.

Residents of the state may have in their possession and may carry with them as baggage or express the limit of any one kind of game bird or a mixture of 20 birds that does not contain more than the limit of any one variety. Birds cannot be taken out of the state.

Woodcock, partridge, plover and snipe are protected from December 1 until September 10.

Prairie chicken, prairie hen and grouse are protected from October 1 until September 10, in many counties including Clark and Wood, but not Marathon.

Game birds just mentioned are protected in Marathon County until September 1, 1912.

Pheasants and quail are protected until October 1, 1912.

Persons breeding deer, etc., and fur bearing animals, and game birds, must secure a permit from the state game warden, and pay a tax annually of fifty cents for each deer, etc., and five cents for each fur bearing animal or game bird.

In Big Yellow River from its mouth to Babcock, pickerel are classed as rough fish.

Bass are protected from March 15 to June 1. In Green Lake they are protected from March 1 to July 1. No more than fifteen bass may be had in possession at any one time. No bass under 10 inches from tip to tip shall be kept.

Aquatic fowl may be hunted between one hour before sunrise and one-half hour after sunset.

Raccoons are protected from Jan. 1 until October 1. Muskrat houses, beaver dams, and raccoon house trees, must not be molested or disturbed except under supervision of the fish and game warden's department.

Muskies are protected from April 10 to November 16.

Nets and seines must not be lifted between sunset and sunrise.

Fishing thru the ice on the Wausau Lakes and others is prohibited.

Possession of dynamite on any inland waters is proof of the fact of it that the same is possessed for an unlawful purpose. No spear may be used in any trout stream or streams in which trout has been planted.

English preaching services will be held on Sunday morning at 10:30. This will be the only English service on the west side on Sunday morning. A cordial invitation to worship with us is extended to all.

Moon Will Relieve.—On Aug. 7th I will again come to Grand Rapids to try and relieve all who suffer. No one should despair no matter how many physicians and specialists have said that there is no help for them, as I treat physicians, and specialists, and relieve them of their suffering, after all others have failed. I use no medicine, no knife, moon power is greater than all these.

Remember the date Aug. 7th at the Witter House.

State Fair Auto Show. One departure that will mark the change in policy of the management of the Wisconsin State Fair will be the Auto show. F. A. Cannon, the Milwaukee member of the board, has been assigned to the task of organizing a show of 1912 models of every make of pleasure and commercial vehicle sold in Wisconsin. One half of the new machinery building has been turned over to the Auto show department and this will be elaborately decorated along lines in vogue at the Chicago and Milwaukee Auto shows.

Superintendent Cannon has given over one half of the space allotted to the motor vehicle exposition to the manufacturers of commercial trucks and light delivery wagons. The other half of the floor space in the new concrete machinery building, which is 200x450 feet, will house the classy 1912 pleasure vehicle show and about fifty makes of gasoline and electric cars will be shown, some manufacturers exhibiting as many as six models. The Auto show will be free and several manufacturers have ordered thousands of souvenirs to give visitors.

Attached the Circus. A number of the employees of the Indian Pete Wild West show got out an attachment on Wednesday afternoon and tied up the outfit temporarily. A settlement was made with them the same evening at fifty cents on the dollar and the show was allowed to proceed on its way. The men reported that they had got no money and very short rations for the past couple of weeks and upon the outfit being sold they made up their mind that it was about time to go after what they had coming.

Broke a Leg. Wm. Johnson, who was employed by the city on their sewer construction work, had one of his legs broken last Wednesday afternoon. He was working in the ditch when the bank caved in and the weight of the dirt broke his leg just above the ankle. The fracture was reduced by a surgeon and he has since been getting along all right.

Your Income Will be Known

A feature of the new state income tax, which will undoubtedly cause considerable dissatisfaction, is the intimate knowledge which the assessor of incomes will have of the financial condition of every person and family in the state.

People are generally disinclined to make known their income, even to their most intimate friends. That they must now tell this inside information to a total stranger will hardly be accepted with a good grace.

This feature of the bill was recognized by the farmers and they tried to make the people feel that any information they might give would be safe and not given publicly. It is provided, therefore, that no commissioner, assessor of incomes, member of a board of review, or any official or employee shall divulge or make known to any person in any manner "except as provided by law," information which has come to him in the discharge of his duties.

In case any official or employee does divulge such information, it is provided that he shall on conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one month nor more than six months, or by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than two years, at the discretion of the court.

"Such officer, agent, clerk, or employee upon conviction shall also forfeit his office or employment and shall be incapable of holding any public office in this state for a period of three years thereafter."

The law, as it will be soon, is about as strict as it could be reasonably made, still there is no question that many a victim of the new tax will have serious doubts as to whether the information which he gives will be held in strict confidence and not to pass to some one who would not like to know his exact condition financially.

The first seven sections of the bill are taken up with the features of the tax, what incomes include, and the rate of taxation and exemptions. The next twenty-three sections have to do with the machinery, by which the law will be enforced.

The tax commission will have entire charge of the enforcement of the law. The state will be divided into assessment districts. Counties can not be divided in forming the districts. The collection will begin next year on the incomes received during the year ending Dec. 31, 1911. In addition to the assessors, the tax commission can appoint as deputies or authorize the assessors to do so. It is provided that such assessors and their deputies shall have all powers now granted by law to the state tax commission.

This feature was commented on seriously during the debate on the bill as conferring unlimited powers on district officials and their deputies. The salaries of the assessors and deputies are fixed by the tax commission. The only limit to expenditures is that the expenses for the assessors and their assistants shall not exceed 5 cents for every thousand dollars for the valuation of all property as fixed by the tax commission in the state assessment of the preceding year.

The tax commission and assessors of incomes are to meet on the first day of January of each year, "and proceed to assess" every income received during the "preceding calendar year," which is liable to taxation. The county board of review will meet in each county on the last Monday of July at the courthouse in such county to review the assessments of incomes made by the assessor. Where there is more than one county in an assessment district the board of review of the county, signed by the assessor, shall meet on the above date and the assessor will meet at such time as the assessor may fix, when it is possible for the assessor to meet with them. Notice of the meetings are to be published in the county newspapers.

Anyone objecting to the assessment cannot question the assessment unless he first makes "full disclosure under oath of any and all income of such party" liable to assessment. An appeal to the tax commission can be taken within twenty days when the commission will review the findings from the record as made.

The state tax commission has to complete the assessments of incomes of corporations, joint stock companies, etc., on or before Oct. 15 in each year and "forthwith" certify to each county clerk a statement of the assessments of such corporation, etc. The tax upon incomes other than corporations, etc., is computed by the county clerk, assisted by the assessor of incomes, and he in turn certifies the incomes for assessment and the amount of the assessment to the assessor and city clerks. The town and village assessor in each county will consist of three resident taxpayers appointed by the tax commission. They will receive $10 a day for their services. The county clerk is to act as clerk of the board. It is provided that the board, if it considers the case demands, can employ a stenographer to take evidence in any case, otherwise the county clerk takes notice and keeps the records. It is further provided that the stenographer shall be paid by the state but the board "may in its discretion" charge the expenses to the complaining party or parties appearing before the board. This would tend to discourage complaints unless the complaining party was cocksure of winning.

Any corporation, joint stock company, etc., is given the same rights of hearing and appeal as are now granted corporations assessed by the tax commission.

It is expected that through the elaborate machinery provided for the enforcement of the act the state will be able to secure a greater revenue from this new tax than has been done in other states, which have experimented with an income tax only to give it up in the end as impracticable.

If the government shall succeed in some way in breaking the iron grip which the hard coal producers have upon the public's throat, it will have done a worthy deed. Coal is one of the absolute necessities of life, at least in the north, and for many years the price has been as fixed as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and at a figure which has permitted the producers to revel in stupefying luxury through their ill-gotten gains. The time is coming, when some national body like the rate commission in this state, will be created and have the power to look into such matters and correct them, compelling the coal producers like other great corporations, to sell their wares at a price that will permit them to make no more than a "reasonable profit."

The State Highway Commission, at its meeting in Madison last week, decided to build a section of good road on the state fair grounds during fair week and the engineers of the department have been instructed to prepare this exhibit and a force of men will give practical demonstrations to farmers and ranchmen in surfacing, grading and leveling roads every day of fair week.

An Office to be Abolished.

After the first Monday in 1912 the office of supervisor of assessments will be abolished in accordance with the new income tax law. The office has been in vogue the past seven years.

Under the new law the state is to be divided into assessment districts. Officials to take the place of the supervisor of assessments are to be appointed by the state tax commission at least thirty days prior to March 1, 1912, and are to hold for three years. The salary and expenses are not to exceed five cents for every $1,000 of valuation of all property as fixed by the tax commission the preceding year.

RUDOLPH A Trip Then Rudolph

H. C. Wipperfurth has made some great improvements on his farm. Mr. Rudolph, who is working it, has good crops caused by some good ditching on the marsh land.

Small Stoney is one of our hustling young farmers who has made a success by raising good crops.

Ernest Wilkie has made some good improvements on his new farm and he will have success because he is a worker.

Paul Zimmerman has a fine little home with good buildings thereon.

Mrs. Mullin has fairly good crops this year. We hope to see her have good luck in the future.

John Kohlen has a fine start for a nice home.

The Andrew Theron farm is for rent about the old gentleman died.

Will Kater the hustling young farmer who is on the Emil Hunschke farm is prospering.

Alex Zimmerman has stacked his winter wheat and is getting along nicely. He bought a nice cow one day last week.

Wm. Jenson has 10 crops this year. They are doing a rushing business on his farm.

Dick Dobs is improving his farm by building a nice little house thereon.

N. E. Warren has cut a great deal of fine timo hay and he is raising a pair of fine colts.

Gust Lundgren is one of our busy farmers on the creek bottom.

John Lauchback our old and prosperous farmer has a large number of acres of oats to cut soon.

Joe Damski, our up to date farmer has purchased a new gas engine which he uses for separating his milk instead of by hand.

John Lundgren has a nice little farm home.

Peter Krause also has a nice level farm on which he is busy building fences now.

Chas. Earland is one of our hustling young farmers.

Chas. Lundgren has a No. 1 hay farm in Rudolph.

FOURTEEN MILE CREEK

(Too Late for Last Week.)

We are having plenty of rain in these parts lately. Crops are looking fine.

Mrs. F. M. Reus, who has been visiting her aunt in Indiana, has returned to her home here.

Thomas Brown took Frank Wood to Rudolph Friday. Mr. Wood went to prove up on his homestead which he took five years ago.

Miss Josie Jero, who has been visiting here, has returned to her home in Grand Rapids.

Miss Anna Thompson of Auburn is visiting at the W. H. Jewell home this week.

M. S. Wiegarden took a four hundred pound hog to Grand Rapids Friday which he sold to the Reiland meat market.

Steven Helser and wife and son Lester of Appleton visited with his sister, Mrs. I. Jero and family last week.

Warner Vannatta visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. J. I. Vannatta in Grand Rapids Friday.

Wonder why Arpin doesn't have a newspaper. Vesper has two. Vesper has some boosters. They beat knucklers anyway. Vesper also has a cooperative program that should commend the patronage of every farmer in the country. The better is made at only the cost of making, and at that cost to every one. No one is getting a better deal than the other. Farmers don't stand in your own light but patronize your own creamery and have 1000 pounds of butter made every day and it will only cost you the same per day to run the plant as it does when it makes one or five hundred pounds. These are facts and the sooner you believe them and act accordingly the sooner you will be benefited by a co-operative creamery.

Wm. Baars traded his farm last spring for a house in Marshfield and last week he traded the house for a farm in the town of Milwaukee, Waukesha County. He will be about as near W. J. Mann in Waukesha County as he was in Wood County. The farewell party at Mr. Baars' was well attended last Friday night and all joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Baars success in their new home. They will leave Arpin via Soo line Monday or Tuesday and arrive next morning at their new home. He says he will build a new site this fall on his new farm.

Arthur Wolfgram, a nephew of Gust Greenmeyer, has been visiting in these parts but returned home to Milwaukee last Saturday to resume his duties of superintendent in a crane manufacturing plant on National Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis.

PITTSVILLE

(From the Record.)

Leonard Hunschke left early Monday morning for near Babcock where he is engaged on a series of buildings for a man from Chicago who is developing a marsh. The extent of the Joe Jannus place. This Chicagoan, who as report has it, is an ex-judge, has made the purchase of 1000 acres for cranberry purposes. The family are living in tents at present and seem to be enjoying the outing.

Mrs. J. B. Stokes and sons, Paul and Leslie, of Elkhor, Wis., who have been visiting at the L. D. Bough farmstead west of the city, left the latter part of last week for home.

Miss Margaret Dodge, of Madison, has been visiting with Miss Elm Dougherty for a week past at Dexter. They were up to this city last week and spent a couple days with Miss Cora Wisley.

A meteor of unusual size made its appearance in the southern sky a week ago Sunday night. Astronomical authorities consider this the first of a fall of meteors which they had predicted for early in August and such manifestations may be looked for from now on.

The pickle factory is receiving a good supply of cucumbers so far. The season is somewhat advanced and the cool weather of late days has not given the cucumber growth that it should have. Manager Christensen is well pleased with the outlook so far. The new drill man from Pittsburg, Pa., arrived last evening.

SENECA

The Pittsville farmer ball team defeated the Cranmoor team at Seneca Corners by a score of 8 to 4. There was a large crowd in attendance. On Sunday afternoon there will be a game between Alldorf and Sigel.

Dance at Seneca Corners.

—There will be a social dance at Bohmsack's hall on Saturday, evening, Aug. 5th. Good music. Tickets 50 cents. Supper extra. All are cordially invited.

NEKOOSA

(From the Times)

Ivry Smith, a young man who works on the railway tracks of the Paper Co., met with a very painful accident Tuesday. He was assisting in carrying a long heavy steel rail, such as are used on railroads, and in dropping it to the ground his foot was not released at the time the end of the rail, causing it to catch his left foot, badly mashing two of his toes. He was immediately taken to the office of Dr. Pomerville, where the doctor gave him the necessary treatment and took him home in his automobile. He rested well Tuesday night and yesterday evening was getting along nicely.

H. H. Voss has recently been making some decided improvements on his residence property in the northeast part of town. In addition to improvements mentioned in these columns several weeks ago, he has built a new wing on the west side and a new porch on the east side of the main building, besides repainting the entire structure on the outside.

Charles Mills and family left this week for Red Granite Junction, Wis., where they will make their future home. Mr. Mills recently sold his farm, about three and a half miles south of town, to Wm. Laux of Chicago.

Mrs. Wm. Hooper and son, Harold, left Saturday noon for a trip that will cover four or five weeks. This week they will visit friends at Chicago. Then they will go to Hamilton, Canada, where they will spend several weeks visiting Mr. Hooper's people.

THE ALLOTMENT OF HIGHWAY FUND.

The Wisconsin State Highway Commission at its first meeting voted to inaugurate a newspaper campaign to the end that the new state aid highway law (Chapter 387 Laws of 1911) might be thoroughly understood by the people of the state, and that construction under it in 1912 might be general throughout the state and not confined to the comparatively few counties which have been operating under the county aid laws previously in effect.

The law is so drawn that state aid is available in 1912 to those towns which have voted a tax to build roads in 1912 under the county aid system, but those towns which have not so voted will have to vote a tax at a special meeting held on or before September 1st, 1911, if they wish to get state aid in 1912. The time in which towns may act is so short that it is almost impossible to get wide spread action unless the Commission can obtain the cooperation of the editors of the state in making the provisions of the law and the procedure under it fully public. To the editors is due much of the credit for the interest in matters relating to road improvement and the Commission hopes that it can count on a continuation of their past public spirited service in the cause of good roads.

Under the new law Wood County is entitled to $3,645.00, Portage County $3,005.00, Marathon $6,195.00, Adams $945.00, Juneau $2275.00.

The amounts given are what each county will receive if every county asks for all that it is entitled to get under the law. It is probable that some of the counties will not apply for their full allotment, in which case the amounts not asked for are divided pro rata between the counties asking for more than their full allotment.

The following letter on the subject has been addressed to town chairmen on the subject:

The legislature of 1911 passed a law (Chapter 387, Laws of 1911) creating a state highway commission and providing for a system of prospective state highways. An annual appropriation of $800,000 was made for the purpose of providing state aid in 1912 and succeeding years to those towns and counties which vote taxes for the improvement of any road or bridge on the system of prospective state highways.

The new law makes little change in the present system in those counties which have been doing work under the county aid laws of 1907, except that it adds the state as a contributor to the cost of construction, and gives to the state highway commission sufficient authority to insure that the state's money is wisely and economically spent. In those counties which have taken no action under the 1907 laws, it will be necessary for the county board to take action under this law at the November, 1911 session, if any part of the state aid fund is desired for construction in 1912.

The Commission is very desirous of aiding the towns and counties in every possible manner, and takes this method of letting each town chairman know what his town must do in order to get county and state aid for road or bridge construction in 1912. Each town will fall in one or more of the following classes:

Class I. Towns which have voted a tax for county aid road construction in 1912. No further action by the voters of the town is necessary.

Class II. Towns in Class I which have borrowed the money said to build their road in 1911. No part of the state aid fund for 1912 is available for work done in 1911. Such towns will have to follow the course outlined for towns in class III.

Class III. Towns which have not voted a tax for county aid road construction in 1912. Such towns can vote a tax of not less than $400 for road construction or not less than $250 for bridge construction, or both, at a special town meeting.

Class IV. Towns which have voted a tax for county aid road construction in any year previous to 1912 and have the proceeds of such tax in the town treasury. These towns can get county and state aid in 1912 if they vote at a special town meeting to devote such proceeds to state aid construction.

Class V. Towns which have voted a tax to build a county aid bridge in 1912. Such towns can, by voting at a special town meeting to devote the proceeds of the tax to state aid construction, get county and state aid if the bridge is built in 1912.

General requirements applying to towns in every class. If the state fund is sufficient the state pays 80 per cent of the cost of roads and 30 per cent of the cost of bridges. Unless the county boards fix other percentages, the county and the town share equally the remainder of the cost.

County and state aid, is available not only for building stone and gravel roads but for the permanent improvement of earth roads as well, and for building any bridge over a water span. All roads and bridges voted to be improved must lie on the system of prospective state highways.

The county has no system the town board shall select the road or bridge to be improved after the county board selects a system. Special town meetings must be held on or before September 1st. Town boards must petition the county board through the county clerk on or before September 1st. Petitions should state the amount of tax voted and give a description of the road or bridge to be constructed.

Counties which wish to build a road in 1912 with county and state funds alone must vote county tax for the purpose at a special meeting of the county board held on or before October 1st.

The Commission will gladly answer any question concerning features of the law not explained in this necessarily short letter. It has in preparation a bulletin containing the law in full, together with notes and explanations of its various provisions, which will be sent to you at an early date. Until the bulletin is available it would be well to consult the law itself, now generally available in newspaper supplement form. Wisconsin State Highway Commission, Madison, Wisconsin.

No More Games of Chance.

Secretary of State Frear has given notice that the law prohibiting gambling or games of chance at county and other fairs in this state will be strictly enforced. He also says that he proposes to have inspectors out this fall to see that the law is complied with and that the penalty for its violation will be the taking away of state aid.

Hereafter anything that savors of chance will be tabooed.

Mr. Frear stated to the secretary of the Fond du Lac fair that game racks will be permitted as this game was one of skill rather than chance. The "poodle dog" game, which is having somewhat of a success in various places of the state at the present time comes under the ban, as well as everything with a wheel or a paddle attached to it. Everything that has a number or a chance must be eliminated in 1911 fairs. Tented amusement such as dices and the like, must also be eliminated from the fair programs.

Plan a Co-Operative City.

New York, Aug. 1.—The American Society of Equity has announced the proposed establishment of a co-operative town by the name of Co-Operator in the Four Lakes region of Wisconsin. The development of the plan includes the operation of a strictly co-operative food manufacturing center.

The proposition is to interest from 5,000 to 1,000,000 co-operators who will pay 10 cents a week. This will be sufficient to establish independent packing plants, grist mills, elevators, warehouses and cold storage plants. With the intended investment it is estimated that the co-operators can come to this place and live in independence.

The Four Lakes region is selected because of its natural and acquired advantages. It already includes the capital city of Madison, the University of Wisconsin and two villages. The region is traversed by many railroads and interurban electric lines and is favorably situated on the great lakes.

"On the plan suggested," the announcement says, "with the added investment of a few hundred dollars a month a man can secure for himself a home and in a location unsurpassed in natural beauty or in man-made advantages."

Happiness is the natural flower of duty. The good man ought to be a thoroughly bright and happy man.—Phillips Brooks.

Value of Graphite.
The fact that graphite is nearly pure carbon, is relatively inert chemically and volatilizes only at high temperatures, makes it of exceptional value in the manufacture of crucibles for the steel, brass and bronze industries, etc.

Bleaching Ivory.
Ivory may be bleached in a bath of unsaturated lime and water, after which it should be rubbed with a dry sawdust.

Prodigies Wear Out.
There is some chance of a boy amounting to something if he is stupid when six years of age. It is the boys who are prodigies at learning when they are young who stay out in the rain when they are grown.

New Game Law.—Through the kindness of Game warden Cole we are able to print the following changes in the fish and game laws of this state as the last legislature made them. Only those are here given which will be of interest to residents of this part of the country.

It is unlawful to kill, ship, or have in possession during any one day more than five of any variety of grouse, prairie chicken or woodcock; or more than ten partridges; or more than fifteen wild duck, coot, mallard, plover, snipe, rail and rice hens.

Bob-white, quail, Mongolian, Chinese and English pheasants must not be killed at any time.

No person who has not a hunting license then in force may have any game birds in his possession.

Residents of the state may have in their possession and may carry with them as baggage or express the limit of any one kind of game bird or a mixture of 20 birds that does not contain more than the limit of any one variety. Birds cannot be taken out of the state.

Woodcock, partridge, plover and snipe are protected from December 1 until September 10.

Prairie chicken, prairie house and grouse are protected from October 1 until September 10, in many counties including Clark and Wood, but not Marathon.

Game birds just mentioned are protected in Marathon County until September 1, 1912.

Pheasants and quail are protected until October 1, 1913.

Persons breeding deer, etc., and for bearing animals, and game birds, must secure a permit from the state game warden, and pay a tax annually of fifty cents for each deer, etc., and five cents for each for bearing animal or game bird.

In Big Yellow River from its mouth to Babcock, pickerel are classed as rough fish.

Co. Supt. Geo. A. Varney of Vesper made this office a brief call Monday and reports the affairs of his office moving smoothly. He has been in office one month, and in that time has made the acquaintance of a large number of his constituents, and made a very favorable impression upon them. He is working hard to get fully in touch with all the duties of his office before school opens in the fall. Every indication points to his unqualified success in his new office. His special office days are as follows: At Court House, Grand Rapids every Saturday; at Masonic House, Marshfield, first and fourth Wednesdays of each month; at other times, unless otherwise engaged, at his home in Vesper, Wis.

New Game Law.—Through the kindness of Game warden Cole we are able to print the following changes in the fish and game laws of this state as the last legislature made them. Only those are here given which will be of interest to residents of this part of the country.

It is unlawful to kill, ship, or have in possession during any one day more than five of any variety of grouse, prairie chicken or woodcock; or more than ten partridges; or more than fifteen wild duck, coot, mallard, plover, snipe, rail and rice hens.

Bob-white, quail, Mongolian, Chinese and English pheasants must not be killed at any time.

No person who has not a hunting license then in force may have any game birds in his possession.

Residents of the state may have in their possession and may carry with them as baggage or express the limit of any one kind of game bird or a mixture of 20 birds that does not contain more than the limit of any one variety. Birds cannot be taken out of the state.

Woodcock, partridge, plover and snipe are protected from December 1 until September 10.

Prairie chicken, prairie house and grouse are protected from October 1 until September 10, in many counties including Clark and Wood, but not Marathon.

Game birds just mentioned are protected in Marathon County until September 1, 1912.

State Fair Auto Show.

One departure that will mark the change in policy of the management of the Wisconsin State Fair will be the Auto show. F. A. 'Cannon', the Milwaukee member of the board, has been assigned to the task of organizing a show of 1912 models of every make of pleasure and commercial vehicle sold in Wisconsin. One half of the new machinery building has been turned over to the Auto show department and this will be elaborately decorated along lines in vogue at the Chicago and Milwaukee Auto shows.

Superintendent Cannon has given over one half of the space allotted to the motor vehicle exposition to the manufacturers of commercial trucks and light delivery wagons. The other half of the floor space in the new concrete machinery building, which is 200x350 feet, will house the classy 1912 pleasure vehicle show and about fifty makes of gasoline and electric cars will be shown, some manufacturers exhibiting as many as six models. The Auto show will be free and several manufacturers have ordered thousands of souvenirs to give visitors.

Attached the Circus.
A number of the employees of the Indian Pete Wild West show got out an attachment on Wednesday afternoon and tied up the outfit temporarily. A settlement was made with them the same evening at fifty cents on the dollar and the show was allowed to proceed on its way. The men reported that they had got no money and very short rations for the past couple of weeks and upon the outfit being sold they made time to go after what they had coming.

MONSTER WHALES.
One That Swallowed Whole a Shark Fifteen Feet Long.
Frank T. Bullen, the noted writer of sea tales, in one of his lectures said that in New Zealand he once saw a whale opened and there were found in its stomach a number of fish which must simply have swum down its throat, and among them was a shark fifteen feet long and nine feet round. The huge Greenland whale was described. Mr. Bullen asked his audience to imagine a monster of 250 tons and told how such a one was taken on a voyage in which he took part, enough whalebone being taken out of his head to pay a good dividend on the voyage. For six months in the year this particular kind of whale, which was the most helpless of all, led a life of alarms and excursions, for he was always being chased.
A third kind of whale, the hump-backed whale, was shown in a picture jumping from the water, and Mr. Bullen explained that this was no indication of joy in life. They were, in fact, not driven out of the water by pursuing adhering to their bodies. This particular whale was greatly devoted to its young, and if a man happened to kill a calf he needed all his ingenuity to escape from the mother. On one occasion fifty-two boats went after whales in the bay of California and by accident a calf was killed. In one hour the boats captured fifty of the fifty-two boats, killing a number of men, and then sailed out to sea without a scratch.
BEN BUTLER'S BLUFF.
It Was Well Worked and Completely Fooled General Bingham.
General John A. Bingham was a member of the military tribunal that tried Mrs. Surratt and the Lincoln assassination conspirators.
After the trial in the subsequent debate in the house General B. F. Butler frequently charged that the commission had arrived at an unjust verdict and had convicted an innocent woman. In a memorable debate he boldly proclaimed that if the contents of the diary which had been found on the dead body of J. Edgar Smith were made public it would disclose the fact that it contained the proof of Mrs. Surratt's innocence, which proof had been infamously suppressed by the commission. When General Bingham made a movement as though he would read the diary, a member of the committee drew a miniature book out of his breast pocket and held it aloft, but did not utter a word. Bingham naturally supposed that Butler had a copy of a diary such as he had spoken of. As a matter of fact the book contained nothing but blank leaves. General Butler was just bluffing.
The diary was in possession of Secretary Stanton, but President Johnson finally demanded it. It was an interesting book, but it threw no light upon the great conspiracy.
Milk and Popped Corn.
Because he knew his prudent the doctor was not at all ruled when she exclaimed:
"But I can't, doctor! It is no use talking. I just can't. I hate milk. I can't drink it. I will take any kind of medicine you wish me to, but I cannot swallow sweet milk."
"Very well," he said soothingly. Then he opened the door, and from the kitchen there drifted in the smell of popped corn.
"Your nurse," said the doctor.
"Half an hour later he persuaded her to taste a spoonful of milk.
"Why, that's not so bad after all," she said. "What did you do to it?"
"Seeded that popped corn in it," said he. "It is an entirely different taste, doesn't it? Sweet milk's bitter enemy is bound to say it is drinkable after it has soaked up the essence of popped corn for ten or fifteen minutes."—New York Sun.

Keep the Fire Burning.
It used to be the custom in some old English inns for the fire to be kept constantly burning day and night. One such inn mentioned in "Old Country Inns" was the Plow, at Upper Dicker, in Sussex, and at the Chequers Inn, near Osmotherly, in Yorkshire. The hearth fire has been burning uninterruptedly for at least 130 years. The tradition points to a time when the public house was necessarily resorted to for purposes of all kinds.

A TRAMP PARTNERSHIP
By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.
One summer's day as a lone widow was driving an emigrant wagon along the dusty highways of Colfax county bound for Texas, she was met by a tramp, a fellow of about 250 pounds and told how such a one was taken on a voyage in which he took part, enough whalebone being taken out of his head to pay a good dividend on the voyage. For six months in the year this particular kind of whale, which was the most helpless of all, led a life of alarms and excursions, for he was always being chased.

MCDONALD BROS. HAVE A FINE FARM.
Crops in this section of country, according to all reports we have heard, look remarkably well. One of the finest and best farms we have seen in this or any other section of country is the Berard & McDonald farm of fourteen acres, or 500 acres, in Juneau county, about thirteen miles southwest of Nekoosa. Mr. Berard also owns a splendid farm of 300 acres in Adams county, on which the crops also look well. But his large farm in Juneau county is certainly a "peach." On this farm are about three hundred, or 130 acres, sown to oats that actually look like a chrome. The growing crop is rapidly developing and at the present time is of a dark green color—indicating the very highest quality of grain. Mr. Pelix Berard, the owner, in conversation stated that if the yield from this crop of oats did not average sixty bushels of the acre he would be very much disappointed. The fact is, one might travel a long distance before finding an oats crop on one farm with such prospects of a magnificent yield as are to be seen on this farm. Indeed it would be difficult to find a better farm in general anywhere than the Berard & McDonald farms here referred to.—Nekoosa Times.
SENECA
Miss Amelia Teska entertained the Oak Leaf Club at her home in Seneca last Sunday. Everybody reports a good time. Miss Amelia, who is employed at the Lawrence E. MONSTER WHALES.
One That Swallowed Whole a Shark Fifteen Feet Long.

Frank T. Hutton, the noted writer of sea tales, in one of his lectures said that in New Zealand he once saw a whale opened and there were found in its stomach a number of fish which must simply have swum down the throat, and among them was a shark fifteen feet long and nine feet round.

The huge Greenland whale was described. Mr. Hutton asked his audience to imagine a monster of 250 tons and told how such a one was taken on a voyage in which he took part, enough whalebone being taken out of its head to pay a good dividend on the voyage.

For six months in the year this particular kind of whale, which was the most helpless of all, led a life of abstinence and exertion, for he was always being chased.

A third kind of whale, the hump-backed whale, was being chased by a shark, and Mr. Hutton explained that this was no indication of joy in life. They were, in fact, if not driven out of the water, certainly driven out of the water by predators adhering to their bodies.

This particular whale was greatly distressed by the shark and it happened to kill it and he needed all his energy to escape from the mother.

On one occasion fifty-two boats went after whales in the bay of California and by accident a calf was killed. In one hour the parent destroyed fifty of the fifty-two boats, killing a number of men, and then sailed out to sea without a scratch.

BEN BUTLER'S BLUFF.
It Was Well Worked and Completely Fooled General Bingham

General John A. Bingham was a member of the military tribunal that tried Mrs. Surratt and the Lincoln assassination conspirators.

After the trial in the subsequent debates in the house General B. B. Butler frequently charged that the commission had arrived at an unjust verdict and had convicted an innocent woman.

In a memorable debate he boldly proclaimed that if the contents of a diary which had been found on the dead body of J. Wilkes Booth were ever made public it would disclose the fact that it confirmed the proof of Mrs. Surratt's innocence, which proof had been infamously suppressed by the commission.

When General Bingham made a movement as though he would read such an accusation, Butler dramatically drew a memorandum book from his breast pocket and held it aloft, but did not utter a word. Bingham naturally supposed that Butler had a copy of a diary such as he had spoken of. As a matter of fact the book contained nothing but blank leaves. General Butler was just bluffing.

The diary was in possession of Secretary Stanton, but President Johnson finally demanded it. It was an interesting book, but it threw no light upon the great conspiracy.

Milk and Popped Corn.
Because he knew his patient the doctor was not at all nullified when she exclaimed:

"But I can't, doctor; it is no use talking, I just can't. I hate milk. I can't drink it. I will take any kind of medicine you wish me to, but I cannot swallow sweet milk."

"Very well," he said soothingly. "Then he opened the door and from the kitchen there drifted in the smell of popping corn."

"Who is popping corn?" she asked. "Your nurse," said the doctor.

Half an hour later he persuaded her to taste a spoonful of milk.

"Why, that's not so bad after all," she said. "What did you do to it?"

"Sounded that popped corn in it," said he. "Gives it an entirely different taste, doesn't it? Sweet milk's different enemy is bound to say it is drinkable after it has soaked up the essence of popped corn for ten or fifteen minutes."—New York Sun.

Evening Schools.
Evening schools owe their existence to the Rev. Thomas Charles, who about 1811 set up one at Hala, Wales, which proved to be quite successful. In 1839 or 1840 the British Bishop Eliza strongly recommended such schools for poor adults, who, on account of enforced labor, had no chance to secure an education. The idea was taken in hand by the British parliament in 1847, and from that date evening schools began to be considered seriously.

At the present time they are numerous throughout Great Britain, America and many other leading nations.—New York American.

Keep the Fire Burning.
It used to be the custom in some old English time for the fire to be kept constantly burning day and night. One such inn mentioned in "Old Country Inns" was the "Plover" at Upper Dicker, in Sussex, and at the Chequers near Canterbury, in Kent.

The fourth fire has been burning uninterruptedly for at least 150 years. The tradition points to a time when the public house was necessarily resorted to for purposes of all kinds.

The Injured One.
"What did that woman do when her pet dog jumped on you and bit you?"

"She gave me a very reproachful look," replied Plodding Pete, "and then she ordered the dog's valet to give it a bath."—Washington Star.

Full Pay.
"How do the boys don't pay me any more than I am worth. She—How in the world do you manage to live on it?"—Exchange.

Judging a Man.
"You can judge a man by the company he keeps," said Uncle Allen Spark. "But you can't always judge him by his habits. Some men are good dual better than the cigars they smoke."

Poultry at the Mines.
Owing to the difficulty of securing fresh eggs, most of the mining companies in Mexico have their own poultry yards.

Value of Graphite.
The fact that graphite is nearly pure carbon, is relatively inert chemically and volatilizes only at high temperatures, makes it of exceptional value in the manufacture of crucibles for the steel, brass and bronze industries, etc.

Bleaching Ivory.
Ivory may be bleached in a bath of unslacked lime, bran and water, after which it should be rubbed with a dry sawdust.

Prodigies Wear Out.
There is some chance of a boy amounting to something if he is stupid when six years of age. It is the boys who are prodigies at learning when they are young who stay out in the rain when they are grown.

Flower of Duty.
Happiness is the natural flower of duty. The good man ought to be a thoroughly bright and happy man.—Phillips Brooks.

A TRAMP PARTNERSHIP
By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1901, by Associated Literary Press

One summer's day as a lone widow was driving an outcast wagon along the dusty highways of "Vesper county" bound "for Kansas or home" she was met by Deacon Popper, farmer.

He asserted that she had a few hundred dollars in cash and knew little about agriculture or soils, and after inviting her to his home for a stay of a week he sold her the very poorest farm in all that country, noted for its fertile soil.

One sunny day in March as she stood at her gate a tramp came slowly up the road and paused before her. "Things looked pretty poor to him, and he had no thought of asking for anything to eat. He looked at the widow, and she looked at him, and he presently said:

"If you were a man you could turn a tramp here to better than farming. I passed here last summer, and I saw you were having a hard time of it."

"Did you stop on purpose to tell me that?" was queried in reply.

"Oh, no. I just felt like chinning a little. You didn't know much about land when you bought this place, I guess."

"And what do you know about the land now?"

"Well, a little bit. Maybe I wasn't always a tramp. This farm was being worked a hundred years ago. The soil is exhausted and dead. It wants bringing back to life. A few tons of manure would take near a thousand bushels of fatners if treated right."

"And the tramp bugs would cut up every inch as soon as it showed above the ground," replied the grumpy widow.

"That's what women talk. Let's talk business. I'll talk of a thousand bushels of fatners."

"They talked for an hour. The widow had been excited once and was very chatty, but the tramp talked straight, and she finally became interested. From that time she came to believe. There must be some money raised for working capital. She mortgaged the farm of old horses and agreed to board the tramp for his work and divide any profits with him in the fall. It was to be ten acres of potatoes and nothing else but a little garden track.

As soon as spring opened the ground was prepared. The tramp had a shovel which he "poked up" somewhere. It went toward getting the land ready. The last of the widow's money went for seed. There were a great deal of laughter and ridicule over that particular. "The tramp had a shovel and a pitchfork and a hoe, but as for potatoes, his, so all the passing farmers said. The potato bugs came along in due time. It was the seventh year. Some farmers had forgotten the date, while others had laid in a proper store of potato greens.
